

Chiron Through The Signs- Healing The Wounded Healer

Chiron is considered by many to be an asteroid or small planet that travels between your orbits of Saturn and Uranus. Although only discovered in 1977, Chiron has developed into a deeply embedded archetype within the collective mind.

Chiron was obviously a centaur, a mythical creature that has been a perfect blend of human reason and animal instinct. He was a great healer, but with an accidental wound was determined to live with his suffering. Chiron inside the astrological chart shows where we have suffered but additionally where we can be a healing and mentoring influence for other people.

When we truly understand the mythology of Chiron we also understand that our personal suffering is usually the grist for our role since the wounded healer. Even as heal our wounds, who easier to help those that have been wounded inside the very same place?

Step one to undertaking the Chiron journey of the wounded healer is to know whats your chiron sign is in. Below I've indicated the times that Chiron entered each sign (Pacific Daylight Time) that will include most readers.

Example: Chiron was at Cancer from 8/27/37 through 11/22/37, 5-28-1938 through 9/29/40, and 12-26-1940 through 6-16-1941.)

To discover your Chiron interpretation, look for your birthdate in the chart below as soon as you've found the sign your Chiron is at read the interpretation that follows. Chiron goes retrograde (backwards) and it has a very erratic orbit so he is not in each sign for a similar amount of time.

The wound with Chiron in Aries is about asserting individual will. These people were taught to comply towards the will of others and/or suppress their will. They are able to model for others how to assert yourself without anxiety about what others will think.

The wound with Chiron in Taurus is about accepting themselves and sexuality. We were holding taught to settle down their passion, intensity and aliveness. They could model for some individuals how to accept the entire range of bodily expression.

The wound with Chiron in Gemini is about trusting knowledge instead of wisdom. These folks were taught that knowledge was more essential than instinct. They can model for others how to tune into and trust their natural intuition and knowing.

The wound with Chiron in Cancer is about the expression of emotion. We were holding born in the middle of the war and after the great depression the location where the mood was somber. They could model for other people how vulnerability is an asset instead of a liability.

The wound with Chiron in Leo is just about the expression of creativity. We were holding told they could play after the work ended. (..and the work was never done!)They can model for some individuals how to follow their heart and retain the innocence of the child.

The wound with Chiron in Virgo is about perfectionism. These folks were put through high standards that were probably impossible to satisfy. They can model for some individuals how self-acceptance is dependant on internal rather than external standards.

The wound with Chiron in Libra is about self-assertion. These folks were taught that to become accepted and loved they have to give up their very own needs. They can model for some individuals how to take care of others with out sacrificing personal autonomy.

The wound with Chiron in Scorpio is just about expression of the shadow. We were holding taught that speaking the truth and expressing their intensity was too much. They can model for others that the shadow (emotion, sexuality, power, etc.) may be the source of their ability and creativity.

The wound with Chiron in Sagittarius is around expression of the inherent wisdom. We were holding taught to not trust their intuition and natural wisdom. They could model for some individuals how to access and utilize wisdom through the body, emotions and higher mind.

The wound with Chiron in Capricorn is about not trusting their particular authority. These folks were taught to look beyond themselves to authority figures for answers. They could model for some individuals how to claim their very own authority by not differing to other people and trusting themselves.

The wound with Chiron in Aquarius is just about expressing their uniqueness. These people were taught they didn't fit in and so experienced alienation. They are able to model for other people how to follow their very own path and make a niche which is uniquely their very own.

The wound with Chiron in Pisces is about connection with Spirit. These people were taught that rational thinking was more valuable than belief in a higher power. They can model for others how to re-connect with Spirit and the way to develop trust and faith.