HOW TRANSCITYRAIL CAN HELP YOU

Connecting Buyers with Suppliers

Since 1999 Rail Technology Magazine has been disseminating and distributing business-critical information to the rail industry supply chain through news and analysis, industry reports and specialist conferences, exhibitions and networking dinners such as TransCityRail which has helped our clients generate £billions in contracts awards over our lifetime.

While blueprints exist for rail infrastructure expenditures, project contingencies exist as well, implying that execution is never a straight path as the customer demands change and the supply chain's ability to innovate evolves.

Such complex projects need face-to-face interaction to build rapport and understand a project's needs. For many, that journey starts at TransCityRail where you get to listen to industry leaders talk candidly about their expectations and then discuss in more detail with them during the networking breaks.

Meeting the key stakeholders in the organisations that drive the critical infrastructural decisions – like Network Rail, HS2, Train operators, major contractors, etc is never easy.

This is where TransCityRail comes in – connecting Buyers and Suppliers in the rail industry supply chain.
