

Ask Mojang for a Brand-new Video Series!

When we have tricky problems that require solving We often gather in our lab to figure things out. The "lab" is a tiny space with a printer as well as a "NO CREEPERS ALLOWED" sign. It works! So when it came to our attention that people out in the world were asking Minecraft and Mojang related questions that were not being answered, we put on our goggles and started working on an idea.

We sat down in our lab and realized that if we could bring people's questions directly to those who know the answers, then BOOM! alusky.xyz This is the sound of communication between our amazing customers and our enthusiastic developers. It's also the very small lab explosion which we may or may not have caused. Our latest video series, Ask Mojiang, was born like a hero emerging from wreckage of an accident.

Want to know what our favorite merchandise is? Where can you find the best raspberry-pickle flavoured Sno-Cone? Maybe you want to know about the technical details behind an innovative design feature! We'll answer your concerns on a regular basis with a rotating cast from our teams in Redmond and Stockholm.