

Why I Consider Tew Rum One of the Best?

Thomas Tew Rum can be described as a re-creation of the pot-distilled rums made by colonists in the 18th and 17th century. Once the rum is distilled, it is then aged in barrels that are small for about a year. This aging imparts a rich amber hue and distinct flavor. When ready the rum matures in barrels for an additional year prior to being bottle-conditioned.

The most exquisite aroma of Thomas Tew Rum

The first sip will reveal scents and tastes of oak, dark caramel and baking spices. These notes are more apparent on the palate, as the rum gets more complex and softens. The finish is long and complex and full-bodied oak character. If you're searching for a rum made that can make the perfect cocktail, Thomas Tew is the right rum for you.

Distilling Tew Rum in Single Barrel Pot Still

Thomas Tew Single Barrel Pot Still Rum has been crafted by the distiller who is master of his craft at Newport Distilling Company. The Master Distiller isn't required to make an age declaration, and all barrels are picked by their taste instead of the number of years they've been in the barrel. This means that the rum is free of artificial flavors or colors. The rum is dark in color and has a deep, spicy flavor.

The Single Barrel Thomas Tew pot still rum is a fine example of a high-end Rum. <https://knight-kat.tumblr.com/> It is a premium brand that doesn't contain artificial flavorings or colors, and is a delicious smooth rum, ideal to drink on its own or mixed into various cocktail recipes. Single Barrel is aged for between three and five years. It is a dark, deep brown. Its spicy flavor makes it a great choice for your home bar.

Dark amber rum Thomas Tew is a fine choice for those who want a unique spirit. It's a rich taste and comes with a deep complex aroma that is scented with notes of molasses and caramel. Its full and smooth character is a great option for cocktails and is great for mixing with a variety of other brands. But if you're searching for a top-quality spirit, it is recommended to buy the one with the highest ratings.

Thomas Tew aging Rum in Barrels

Thomas Tew Rum is made with only one barrel of rum which is then aged for between three and five years. The rum has dark amber hue and smells like brown sugar and oak. The aromas are stronger in the nose, and contain flavors of vanilla and blackstrap molasses. In addition to being an excellent quality rum it is well worth trying at least once.

In contrast to other rums Thomas Tew is made using an amber-colored dark color. The aromas start with molasses, and an aroma of spice. When it gets warm it is infused with the flavors of caramel, vanilla oak as well as brown sugar. The palate is a full-bodied, smooth taste with flavors of vanilla and brown sugar. The rum is often served neat, which makes it ideal for cocktails.

Thomas Tew rum is a light brown rum made from Newport, Rhode Island. It was first introduced in 1842 and since then has gained a worldwide following. Its name comes from a famous Rhode Island pirate that lived in Newport for a brief period of time before raiding the Caribbean. It is made using blackstrap molasses that is then oxidized inside American whisky barrels. It is then stored for a number of years.

What is the reason Thomas Tew Rum is so popular?

Thomas Tew Rum is a popular Tew rum manufactured from 1842 to Newport, Rhode Island. It gained fame with a guest appearance on the TV show Dirty Jobs with Mike Rowe. In spite of its name, Thomas Tew rum is made using the same method as it was during the eighteenth century. Its blackstrap molasses is blended with water from the local area. The fermentation process uses yeast from the brewery next door. The rum is stored in oak barrels over many years. Once the rum is ready to be bottled, it is packaged in corked bottles and sealed by sealing with wax.

As the first distillery to be licensed in the city in the last 135 years Newport has been deemed to be the Rum capital of the world. It is now sold in over 500 stores all over the world. Tew Rum is a highly sought-after alcoholic beverage by people of all age groups. This rum is made in small batches of a few hundred bottles, which makes it an distinct selection.