

CHOOSE A WEDDING VIDEOGRAPHER WITH THE RIGHT TOOLS

As a professional videographer, one must have the right tools to get the job done. The Pope would not have hired Michelangelo if he didn't have a brush (probably more than one!) and paint (lots of it!) to finish the Sistine Chapel. Likewise, to choose the right wedding videographer, make sure they have the right tools to get the job done.

At 2Bridges Productions, we pride ourselves in having the right tools to produce quality and amazing cinematography. In the photo above, you can see that we have the lights, the camera, the sound equipment to shoot high quality indie films. Using these same tools, we have the ability to produce cinematic wedding videos to satisfy the needs of any couple for any budget.

Our go-to cameras are the following:

- Sony A7Sii – these are incredibly light cameras and perfect for run and gun film shoots. They are perfect for live events and wedding ceremonies because the blocking isn't set in stone. It allows the cameraman to move quickly around the room to get the best shots.

- Sony FS7 – This is the camera that is in the picture above. This is a beast of a camera that are used in some six-figure indie films. This is our go-to camera, but it's not as nimble as the A7Sii. However, it is definitely a great camera to shoot 4K video.

ULTIMATE TIP WHEN CHOOSING A WEDDING VIDEOGRAPHER

What makes 2Bridges Productions unique is our ability to shoot for any budget. We can work with any client and get the job done because we have the right tools in our equipment room. One tip – even if obvious – when choosing a wedding videographer: Select one with a good camera, perhaps two!
