Marion Community,

I have enjoyed serving you as your City Councilman, but I believe there is another opportunity ahead for me to better serve my Constituents.

After much thought and prayer, I have decided to announce my candidacy for Marion City Auditor.

The Office of Marion City Auditor is a very important position to hold in Marion's City Government. The City Auditor is responsible for collection of income taxes, management of City monies, providing the function of being the watchdog for the City, and more. The City Auditor is directly accountable to the residents he or she serves. The Office is independently elected by voters.

Over the last several months, constituents and business owners have approached me about the opportunity to better serve Marion in this role. They have expressed their desire to see a change in that Office. I believe they are right. It is time for a change. It is time to bring someone with fresh ideas and a fresh perspective to the City Auditor's Office. We need someone that is not only experienced, but who is honest, transparent, and willing to commit themselves to the work of serving Marion by providing transparency and open access to information.

Our Community deserves to know how their hard-earned tax dollars are being spent, and know they can easily obtain that information through multiple avenues. I will bring my experienced leadership of business management and finance to the City Auditor's Office. I will work hard to provide greater access to information, accurate audits, streamlined processes, and dedication to uphold the watchdog status of the City Auditor's Office. I humbly ask for your support this November.
