Figó Presents the Prestige Tag League

Luis Figo Manico

Luis Figo Manico starts the show in the ring to a chorus of cheers and chants.

Figó: Here we are! Welcome, everyone to the first ever Prestige Tag League show – the first round of this brand new competition that brings 16 of the finest wrestlers from around the world to do battle for the Prestige Tag League Trophy! I can't wait to get into the action!

But before we do, it's my pleasure to announce that at PWL Vision of Glory in June, we will crown our first ever PWL World Tag team champions! The new belts will be awarded to the winners of a match on that night – it'll be the Copa de Primavera champions, Makinen and Callum, now known as Hearts and Heroes, against the winners of this first ever Prestige Tag League! So the stakes are high, the wrestlers are ready... what are we waiting for? Vamos!

Carlos Moreno

Dougie Horwood

Moreno: Hello everyone! Welcome, Dougie, to the commentary booth, joining me for this Prestige Tag League show and all the shows to come. Are you excited?

Horwood: You're damn right I'm excited! We've got a huge show tonight and it's just the first of seven rounds of tag team action, something you know I love to watch, and now we know the endgame is at Vision of Glory – who's going to win the League and who's going to be the first PWL World Tag champions?

Moreno: It could be any of the eight teams we'll see tonight, including Heroes and Hearts – Callum and Makinen, Unstoppabreakable, Double Dutch, Antipode Rush, Findlay & Newton, Konoe & Mimic, Magic Flash, or the Big Cats! And we start tonight with Findlay & Newton taking on Antipode Rush of ZERO and HalloWarped!

The first Prestige Tag League match saw two new teams face off, with contrasting backgrounds and styles. Antipode Rush brought high-flying tandem offence that stunned the crowd. Findlay and Davis Wayne Newton, opted to pick apart their opponents with vicious technicality and brutal power, cementing them as the unpopular choice.

Regardless of popularity, Findlay & Newton came out on top, hitting the Triple Bruiser – an Atomic Spinebuster sandwiched between two knee strikes from DWN.

Devilfish, El Jaguar and Masked Cougar talk backstage before the Big Cats’ match. Masked Cougar looks a little down, while Devilfish is quiet.

El Jaguar: Guys, I know things aren't how you wanted them to be, but there's no point moping around. Come on, Cougar, admit we've still got plenty of chances to win this. Swallow your pride. Tigre's the main man in this group, quit thinking you can tell him what to do. I respect his decision.

Devilfish: You're right, mate. No point fanning around, let's get on with this. Sure, we're teaming for the first time ever, there's gonna be issues. But we'll figure it out. And you know what? I think we'll go on and win this League and show Tigre what he's missing. Sometimes these things happen for a reason. And the reason this time, is gold!

Devilfish's high energy started this match against the power of Kalu Owusu, who received a big cheer from the crowd in A Coruña. Owusu's power overcame the much smaller wrestler. When El Jaguar stepped in, the difference was less and Jag landed an impressive Jaguar Feint Kick.

Jordan tagged in and brought his aerial offence to combat El Jaguar, and hit the Air Jordan (imploding 450 splash). Devilfish tagged back in, but couldn't resist being hoisted onto Owusu's shoulders and dropped into a leaping stunner from Jordan – the Seydou Stunner – for the win.

Mimic and Martin Heath battled through most of this match, the high-flyers using the apron and the outside to their advantage. Carlos Moreno

Dougie Horwood

Moreno: Well, three matches in and we've had a great look at our competitors. Dougie, who's impressed you most?

Horwood: For me, Findlay and Newton look like real superstars. Antipode Rush are a great team, but F&N just took them apart.

Moreno: Big win for Unstoppabreakable, putting away the Big Cats early on. How do you see the Big Cats getting on without Tigre?

Horwood: It'll take some time for Devilfish and El Jaguar to get used to each other, but they've both got talent in spades. When they get on the same page, the other teams had better watch out. But now, let's go to the main event – it's Heroes & Hearts vs. Double Dutch!

Double Dutch make their entrance first, both striding confidently to the ring, no frills, no silliness, just focus and determination.

Moreno: Dougie, we saw these two last Thursday night as they defeated Gram Gorman and Orange Tsuchie. What do you make of their chances against the Copa de Primavera winners tonight?

Horwood: They looked impressive at PWL Apex, but they'll have to step up to a higher level if they have any ambitions of beating Heroes and Hearts tonight.

MAIN EVENT: Double Dutch vs. Heroes & Hearts

Makinen and Callum come out, Makinen nodding his head and Callum shaking hands with the crowd. Callum slaps Makinen on the back and the Swede gets fired up.

Horwood: Dude, these two have been on fire of late. First the Copa, then a big win on Thursday night against Owusu and Jordan. They're certainly my pick to win this league!

Wes Stryker and Konrad Makinen start the match. They engage in a quick wrestling contest for position, until they both decide the best strategy is to land some big strikes. Makinen hits some forearm clubs while Stryker opts for powerful knee strikes.

Moreno: Wes Stryker is just 20 years old and he's already competing at a high level.

Horwood: He's got potential dripping from his pores, and if he sticks with van Cleer and gets the right guidance, he could go on to be something special.

Makinen makes the tag to Callum, and Walker van Cleer also enters.

Moreno: Talk about guidance – Konrad Makinen has benefitted from Nelson Callum's support in the last few months. After his big loss at PWL Prestige, he looked down and out until Callum picked him up and helped him find some success again.

Callum tries to get some mat wrestling started, but van Cleer blocks him and lands a head kick.

MAIN EVENT: Double Dutch vs. Heroes & Hearts

The action flies back and forth with Makinen and Stryker tagging in and out again. Double Dutch manage to isolate Callum in their corner, where they lay in big strikes to the ribs and gut. Callum breaks out and tags in Makinen.

Makinen charges at Stryker on the apron and knocks him off. Van Cleer aims a head kick, but Makinen ducks and hits a huge spear!

*Moreno: Wham! That could be it! One...Two...
Noo!! Van Cleer is made of tougher stuff than that!*

Makinen looks to tag in Callum to set up the Hero's Heart, but as he reaches out his hand, Stryker pulls Callum off the apron and hits him with a vicious uppercut.

Van Cleer recovers as Stryker dives back in the ring. They land stereo pump kicks, then hit the Nether Landing – a high/low where Stryker kicks the leg out from behind while Van Cleer hits a flying roundhouse kick to the jaw, sending Makinen flying onto the mat. Van Cleer goes for the pin.

*Moreno: Nether Landing!!! They hit it! One...Two...
Three! Wow! What an upset! Double Dutch just beat the Copa de Primavera champions and score two massive points in the Prestige Tag League! Everyone keep an eye out for Double Dutch – they'll be in the main event next week too, against Unstoppabreakable!*

The four high-flying wrestlers put on a spectacular aerial show with ropewalks, dives to the outside and flips galore. Antipode Rush's style involved plenty of creative counters, and the two seemed to know exactly where the other was at all times.

This was not the case for the Big Cats, who often tagged at inopportune moments and lost their flow. Nonetheless, El Jaguar showed his worth by powering up and hitting a Jaguar Suplex on ZERO and getting a pinfall victory.

Horwood: No way, dude! This could go either way – we know what to expect from Jordan and Owusu, and we know Double Dutch can be deadly, but I'm not gonna make a fool of myself and pick one! I just know they'll have a great match!

MAIN EVENT: Double Dutch vs. Unstoppabreakable

Wes Stryker starts in the ring opposite Riddick Jordan.

Horwood: The two young bucks start the fight, leaving the experienced team mates in the corner for now!

Stryker and Jordan circle each other, then engage in an exciting back and forth where Stryker lands some big Muay Thai kicks and Jordan draws on his boxing skill and mixes it up with an Asai DDT.

Jordan stays in the ring as van Cleer tags in. Jordan holds his ground, but finds himself under pressure, so he tags in Kalu Owusu who uses his power to smash through van Cleer. However, a blind tag sees Stryker take the initiative and Double Dutch trap Owusu in their corner.

Moreno: We saw this last week – Stryker and van Cleer know how to isolate one opponent and cut the ring in half. Jordan can't do anything from so far away!

Horwood: It's smart. This is the kind of guidance van Cleer gives to Stryker, and it makes him a much better wrestler.

Moreno: Well, Kalu Owusu needs to show his protégé how to survive these situations by doing it himself!

Jordan gets the crowd going and Owusu feeds off their energy, and breaks free to make the tag!

MAIN EVENT: Double Dutch vs. Unstoppabreakable

Jordan leaps over the top rope and wipes out Stryker with a shoulder tackle. He hits a headkick and a sideslam, but Stryker falls into his corner where van Cleer tags in. Jordan doesn't slow down, though, and hits another Asai DDT, then an Air Jordan (imploding 450 splash).

Owusu gets to his feet on the apron and urges Jordan to keep going. Jordan keeps up the offence, then decides to tag in Owusu so they can hit the Seydou Stunner. But Stryker rushes around the ring and takes out Owusu.

Moreno: No! Just like he did last week, Stryker stopped the tag and now Jordan is in the middle of the ring, set up for the Nether Landing! Can they get it? Yes! Van Cleer with the cover! One...Two...Thr-NOO!!! Owusu breaks it up! At the last possible moment!

Owusu is frantic. He gets Jordan to his feet and shakes some life back into him. He hoists van Cleer onto his shoulders, then tosses him forward as Jordan hits a leaping stunner.

Moreno: The Seydou Stunner! Jordan rolls on top of him! One...Two...Three!! He did it! Owusu and Jordan win!

Horwood: Great fire from Owusu to save one pinfall and then create one for his own team! That puts them on four points along with Findlay & Newton! Double Dutch can take heart, though, they're really capable of mixing it with the best! Next week, Findlay & Newton vs. Heroes & Hearts!

Findlay & Newton make their entrance looking determined, focus and merciless.

Moreno: Big test for Findlay & Newton tonight! They've looked impressive in the opening two rounds, but this is the first time they've come up against an elite team like Heroes & Hearts!

Horwood: Right – the Copa de Primavera champions may have slipped up in round one, but they're still many people's pick to win this League, and we're really going to see what this new team are made of!

MAIN EVENT: Findlay & Newton vs. Heroes & Hearts

Nelson Callum and Konrad Makinen come out to the ring to a cheer. Callum loves being with the crowd. Makinen seems focused, with his eyes fixed on the ring.

Horwood: Looks like we're seeing Makinen returning to confidence – I think a win tonight would really set him on a course back to where we know he belongs – at the top of PWL!

Davis Wayne Newton and Nelson Callum start opposite each other in the ring.

Moreno: Two North Americans technicians facing off – Newton proud to represent Canada, while Callum is a hero in parts of the East Coast!

Newton makes the first move, shooting in on Callum who sees it coming and gains back control. They wrestle for position, with Callum gaining an advantage until Newton directs the action to his corner where he tags in Findlay.

Horwood: Here we go! It's big Bruiser Findlay – made his name in Japan, but he's come to Europe for the best competition in the world!

Moreno: He's a huge guy. In other places that may be an advantage, but we've seen with Menace and Hercules Johansson, size matters less in PWL!

Findlay smashes through Nelson Callum, who stumbles back to his corner where Makinen tags in.

MAIN EVENT: Findlay & Newton vs. Heroes & Hearts

Makinen stares up at the towering Findlay. He grits his teeth and lays in a big forearm strike. It bounces off the Bruiser. He hits another. Nothing. He runs the ropes, and smashes into Findlay with a huge spear! Findlay staggers back to the ropes, but doesn't leave his feet.

Moreno: Wow! If a Makinen spear can't defeat this monster, what can?

Findlay laughs and throws Makinen into the corner. From there, he and Newton lay down a savage beating on the Swede, cutting the ring in two. The crowd are not happy. They chant for Makinen to make his escape, which he does, eventually. He tags in Callum who wipes out Newton and goes after Findlay's leg.

Despite Callum's technique, Findlay shrugs off the attempts to cut him down, grabs Callum by the head, and throws him across the ring. It's a mistake as Callum finds Makinen for the tag. Makinen explodes into the ring, full of fire. He shoulder charges Findlay, sending him staggering back. Then he goes for another spear... and decks Findlay!

He goes to the top rope, urging Callum to set up the Cupid's Arrow. But Newton recovers, wipes out Callum and pushes Makinen off the top. Newton gets Findlay up and hits a knee strike. Findlay gets up to hit the Atomic Spinebuster, then Newton strikes again. Makinen drops.

Moreno: The Triple Bruiser! One...Two...Three!! Findlay & Newton win!! A huge win for them!

Moreno: We have a strong idea about who's in League contention in this first Season, and this Round 4 is a crucial point for teams to change their fortunes, or press on towards the top!

Horwood: Yeah, two teams are streaking out ahead – Unstoppabreakable and Findlay & Newton. They'll hope to continue their winning ways against Konoe & Mimic and Magic Flash respectively.

Moreno: Double Dutch are up there in the mix too – they face Antipode Rush who are looking for their first points.

Horwood: And two teams who've struggled to live up to expectations as favourites meet in the main event – it's the Big Cats against Heroes & Hearts – the winner of this match will get their season back on course, while the losers will need a miracle in the next three weeks!

Rodriguez: Well, part of PWL's philosophy is Prestige and the respect that comes with that.

It wasn't to be, though, as Newton wormed his way out of Flash & Fire and tagged in Findlay. The Big Bruiser ran wild, using his size to obliterate Martin Heath, and even the large-framed SIRA couldn't resist. Findlay & Newton hit the Triple Bruiser to win their fourth straight match.

Callum: You can do it. I don't exactly know how, but when it matters, you'll pull it out. I trust you. Maybe it'll happen tonight? Maybe not. But... if it doesn't come along soon... well, it may already be too late for this Season.

Moreno: This is almost a rematch of the Copa de Primavera final! The only change is El Jaguar instead of Tigre Salvaje Jr!

Horwood: Yeah, and while El Jaguar is a great replacement, he and Devilfish haven't quite found that chemistry to be as effective as the Big Cats team that made the final.

Moreno: On the other hand, they may not have to contend with a rampaging Konrad Makinen! Heroes & Hearts have struggled early this season!

MAIN EVENT: Big Cats vs. Heroes & Hearts

Nelson Callum and Konrad Makinen make their way to the ring. They get a good ovation from the crowd. Nelson Callum gets the crowd going while Makinen walks straight to the ring without looking at anyone. He stares at the mat, a strange look in his eyes.

Horwood: Last week, something happened in Makinen and he came out full of fire, but then he got pinned – his emotions must be all over the place.

The Big Cats come out with Masked Cougar taking his place in their corner.

Moreno: Plenty of energy and frustration from these two teams who are in danger of losing sight of the top of the League. Devilfish and El Jaguar need to get on the same page soon!

The match starts at 100% with Callum and Devilfish whizzing around the ring, Callum trying to catch Devilfish while the Kiwi tries to deliver offence without Callum grabbing a limb.

When Callum does get his hands on Devilfish's leg, he slithers free and tags in El Jaguar. The explosive luchador barrels into Callum who falls into his own corner. Makinen tags himself in and trades big shots with El Jaguar.

The pair go back and forth until Makinen hits a spear.

Horwood: There we go! Big move from Makinen – he's put his team in control!

MAIN EVENT: Big Cats vs. Heroes & Hearts

Makinen gets Callum back in to do some limb work on El Jaguar. Jag shows his determination by battling free, and finds a tag to Devilfish. Devilfish traps Callum in the corner and tells El Jaguar to set up the Flying Ferocity.

Moreno: If they hit this, it's all over!

Devilfish nails Callum with the Flying Fish Forearm as El Jaguar immediately catches Callum and hits the Jaguar Suplex! Callum slumps, looking totally wasted.

Moreno: That's it! Jag goes for the cover! But wait, the ref's not counting! He's not the legal man! Devilfish is the one who needs to make the cover!

For a few seconds, Devilfish and El Jaguar look at each other, confused. The Devilfish goes for the cover, but he can't make it, as Makinen charges in and breaks up the pin. The Swede gets up and roars. His face is hard. His eyes blaze.

Moreno: Makinen! Look at his face! Is that what we saw at La Copa? Has he brought it out? Spear to El Jaguar! Spear to Devilfish! He's going to the top rope! Hero's Journey! Cover! One... Two... Three!! Makinen did it! Heroes & Hearts win, and Makinen may have got his mojo back!

Horwood: Misunderstanding in the Big Cats again! Don't miss Round 5 next week!!

Moreno: This is a huge match for Unstoppabreakable. Win here, and they're in supreme control.

Horwood: They can go into the final two rounds with both men fresh, now that Jordan is out of the singles Prestige League.

Heroes & Hearts make their entrance to a similar ovation. Makinen looks focused.

MAIN EVENT: Heroes & Hearts vs. Unstoppabreakable

Horwood: We saw a flash of what Makinen can do last week when he took advantage of a Big Cats mix up to land the Hero's Journey and win the match on his own!

Moreno: I'd say this match may be decided by whether Makinen can find that within himself or not.

Horwood: You say that, but Heroes & Hearts got the win over Unstoppabreakable at PWL Apex without needing anything special from Makinen.

Moreno: But these are two very different teams to a month ago. The Prestige Tag League has changed them both, and now Unstoppabreakable are, as Farrah Hesketh would say, big faves.

Makinen and Owusu start in the ring and circle each other, respectfully locking up and wrestling for position. Owusu uses his strength to overpower Makinen, but the Swede executes a cheeky trip to take Owusu down.

Owusu pops back up and they go again. The crowd chant for both teams in equal measure. Callum offers his hand to tag, as does Jordan, and both men enter.

They pick up where Owusu and Makinen left off.

MAIN EVENT: Heroes & Hearts vs. Unstoppabreakable

Horwood: It's all very respectful so far, neither team rushing into any mistakes.

The action continues like this with a few more tags in for Callum to face Owusu and Makinen to go up against Jordan. Owusu breaks the pattern by hitting a huge German suplex on Makinen.

Jordan senses his team mate's urgency and tags in, taking to the skies with an Air Jordan and a Riddickulous on Makinen. The Swede is in trouble, but can't resist Jordan and Owusu's quick tags and big strikes. Unstoppabreakable look determined to win this match.

For several minutes, Makinen fails to escape. The crowd swell behind him, hoping to see him find the inner fire to turn the match around.

It happens. A kick to the face wakes him up. His eyes turn to fire and his face trembles. Another two kicks complete the transition. Spear to Jordan! Spear to Owusu! The crowd roar as Makinen rises to his feet. Nelson Callum tags himself in. Together, they run wild on Owusu and Jordan, Callum going for the Cupid's Arrow (slingshot spear) while Makinen sets up the Hero's Journey...

Moreno: They're looking for Hero's Heart! Kalu Owusu is in huge trouble here – Callum hits the Cupid's Arrow! And there's the Hero's Journey! Can Callum get the pin? Wait! No! Time's up! The match is over! Twenty minutes just flew by and we have the first draw of the Prestige Tag League! Not great for either team! Don't miss next week's show, and Youngman vs. Tigre tomorrow night!

Moreno: After Callum and Jordan's relegation from the Prestige League, Devilfish is now the only wrestler competing in both singles and tag Prestige Leagues right now.

Horwood: If you ask me, it's a mistake. Both Jordan and Callum got relegated, and when you look at how well they did in the previous season without working a double schedule, you've got to say fatigue has a huge effect. Devilfish wrestled last night – will he be in top condition in this match?

Findlay & Newton make their entrance to plenty of boos from the crowd.

MAIN EVENT: Big Cats vs. Findlay & Newton

Moreno: A loss last week for Findlay & Newton was the first sign of weakness from the team. They couldn't handle Double Dutch, and with Unstoppabreakable winning earlier tonight, they need a draw at minimum here to stay in the title hunt!

Horwood: The Big Cats could do Owusu and Jordan a massive favour if they win tonight!

Devilfish and El Jaguar make their entrance with customary zip. Devilfish shows no sign of tiredness from the efforts of last night. Masked Cougar takes Devilfish to the side and speaks to him for a good while before the match begins.

When the bell rings, El Jaguar and Newton start. Despite an early flurry from Jag, Newton executes a strong gameplan of targeting the legs to cut out the luchador's base.

Devilfish tags in and sees some success, but Findlay's arrival sees a massive size disparity and Devilfish can't resist the Bruiser's immense power and impact.

Moreno: The Big Cats are struggling here – Findlay & Newton have come out with a clear strategy, and they're following it perfectly.

Horwood: It's so hard to deal with someone of Findlay's size and strength. I know that kind of thing hasn't always brought success in PWL, but when you've got a smaller, faster, cunning guy as a partner, he can provide a change of pace and a different angle of attack.

MAIN EVENT: Big Cats vs. Findlay & Newton

Findlay & Newton continue beating down Devilfish. Masked Cougar gets the crowd going in support of his team mate, and El Jaguar stomps on the apron. With their support, and a little luck, Devilfish escapes Newton's clutches and makes the tag to Jag!

Jag leaps over the top rope and immediately clears out Newton with a huge shoulder tackle. Newton gets up, only to get knocked straight back down again. Jag hits a Jaguar Feint Kick and an inverted DDT, but as he sets up the Jaguar suplex, Newton grabs El Jaguar's leg and starts pounding away at it. This allows him to escape, and tag in Findlay.

Moreno: Brilliant work from Newton – they weakened that leg earlier, and it paid off big time!

Jag keeps up his momentum, slamming into Findlay with a shoulder tackle, but Findlay doesn't go down. Jag hits another. Findlay wobbles, but stays on his feet. As Jag goes for a third, Findlay grabs him by the throat and chokeslams him into the middle of the mat.

Newton jumps into the ring, wipes out Devilfish from the Big Cats corner, then nails Jag in the chest with a knee strike. Then Findlay with an Atomic Spinebuster... and another knee strike from Newton...

Moreno: The Triple Bruiser! They got it and El Jaguar is down! Findlay hooks the leg! One...Two... Three!!! Findlay & Newton get the win and stay in the title hunt!

Owusu: Congratulations, boys. You stayed in the game. I thought maybe we'd be holding the Prestige Tag Trophy tonight, but it'll have to wait until next week. Next week. Biggest match of your lives. Biggest match of our lives, if we're totally honest. It's the unbeaten Unstoppabreakable against the formidable Findlay & Newton. And you know what? I can't wait. I can't wait to get in the ring with Riddick Jordan, the best tag partner I could ever hope for. I can't wait to kick your asses and pin you with the Seydou Stunner. And I can't wait to bring the Prestige Tag Trophy to everyone back home who's supported me for so long! And if you think you can stop us, you're wrong. If you think you can break us, you're wrong! Moreno: This is it! It's the final round of the first Prestige Tag League, and top spot is on the line!

Horwood: First place and survival are both at stake. Man alive, I'm pumped for some of the matches we've got coming up – some of these teams are fighting for everything – it's gonna be great!

Moreno: First up is the big relegation scrap – Antipode Rush face Magic Flash – Antipode Rush only need a draw to stay out of the relegation playoff spot, but a win for Magic Flash will see them to safety!

Horwood: Big Cats and Double Dutch will scrap it out for the mid-table positions while Heroes & Hearts will look to rise with a win over already relegated Konoe & Mimic. And in the main event, it's first place vs. second place, Unstoppabreakable vs. Findlay & Newton – winner gets the Trophy!

With ensured survival at stake, both teams brought everything to the table. Martin Heath matched ZERO for speed and style, while SIRA used his strength to get his team on top. However, it wasn't to be for Magic Flash as the seemingly telepathic communication between HalloWarped and ZERO came out strong. They hit the Future Shock and won the match.

Horwood: Survival for Antipode Rush! I'm happy about that, because they're a great team to have around. And Magic Flash still have a chance to stick around if they win the playoff!

After the match, SIRA lost his cool. He shouted at Martin Heath, who yelled back, both seemingly blaming the other for the loss. Heath turned his back to walk away, but SIRA span him round and struck him in the jaw.

He followed up with a huge pop-up powerbomb onto the guard rail and left his partner writing on the floor in pain.

Moreno: What's he doing? They've still got a playoff match – and that'll take place tomorrow night! SIRA may have just cost them their spot in the League!

While Devilfish wasn't quite at his usual ridiculous speed, he operated well enough, and El Jaguar more than made up for it. Jag was a beast, rampaging around the ring and dishing out some serious offence on Stryker and van Cleer who, for once, seemed a little out of sorts. Moreno: It's crunch time. Positions three to eight are all fixed, it's just the top two to up for grabs now. In no more than twenty minutes, we'll have our first ever PWL Prestige Tag League champions!

Horwood: Unstoppabreakable have the one point advantage. If this match goes to a draw, they'll win the League. Findlay & Newton MUST win. So surely there's no holding back!

Findlay & Newton make their entrance and the crowd show their contempt for the team. Newton returns the favour, but Findlay doesn't seem to care.

MAIN EVENT: Findlay & Newton vs. Unstoppabreakable

Moreno: Whatever happens, it's been an enormously impressive debut season for Findlay and Newton. They've lost just one match in six so far, and looked dominant throughout.

Horwood: But they won't settle for just looking impressive. They want to win. That's why they're here in PWL, not to make friends, not to get over with the fans. No, they're here for the gold.

Unstoppabreakable's music hits and the pair stride out, looking pumped up. Owusu slaps Jordan on the back and mouths "this is our moment" to the camera.

Moreno: Talking about impressive – these two are undefeated, with just one draw to tarnish their record this season. When you look at some of the other teams in the league, that's a massive achievement.

Horwood: And after all that work, you'd better believe they aren't going to let Findlay & Newton take their glory without a serious fight. Kalu Owusu has been in PWL from the start, albeit on and off, and he's yet to win gold. Can he change that tonight?

The bell rings. Findlay starts in the ring, opposite Kalu Owusu who stares him down. It's rare for Owusu to be the smaller man in a PWL ring, but Findlay is one of the biggest wrestlers in the promotion's history.

They circle each other, then Owusu goes for a shoulder charge. Findlay stays on his feet.

MAIN EVENT: Findlay & Newton vs. Unstoppabreakable

Owusu recoils, surprised at how little he managed to move the bigger man. He tries again, and Findlay steps back to absorb the blow. He runs the ropes and charges for a third, but Findlay steps to the side and hits him with a huge sideslam backbreaker. Owusu crumples.

Findlay rubs his hands and tags in Newton. Owusu uses the ropes to get to his feet and tags out to Riddick Jordan. Newton and Jordan engage in the centre, locking up and jostling for position. Newton gets wrist control, but Jordan deftly counters and starts getting the upper hand. Newton backs into the corner and Findlay slaps him on the back to make the tag.

Now the size difference is even greater. But Jordan has plenty of speed, and manages to avoid Findlay. Not for long, though. Findlay grabs hold of him and throws him into the corner and starts laying in big strikes and shoulder rams to the midsection.

Findlay maintains control, tagging in and out with Newton, pummeling Jordan, not letting him breath. Five minutes pass like this.

Horwood: Things aren't looking great for Unstoppabreakable. But the longer Jordan survives, the closer they get to the time limit. If they survive that long, they'll still walk away with the Prestige Tag Trophy!

Jordan makes a comeback. With Owusu encouraging him from the outside, he battles free and makes it back to his corner, where Owusu charges in.

MAIN EVENT: Findlay & Newton vs. Unstoppabreakable

Owusu smashes into Newton with a massive headbutt, then lays in cross chops. Newton staggers to his own corner and Findlay surges into the ring, but Owusu is fired up and lands a drop kick and an impressive pumphandle slam.

Moreno: Owusu on fire right now! Findlay is reeling!

Owusu hits a German suplex on Findlay, but the big man rolls through and ends up on his feet. He obliterates Owusu with a massive clothesline.

It looks like Findlay will reassert control of the match. He goes for a cover, but Owusu kicks out and fires up, slamming his chest and barreling past Findlay to tag in Jordan. Jordan takes to the skies, with a missile drop kick, sending Findlay back into his own corner. Newton tags in, but gets immediately hit by a headkick and an Asai DDT!

Moreno: Here comes Jordan! Newton is in big trouble – can he survive this onslaught?

Jordan goes to the top rope to hit an Air Jordan (imploding 450) but Newton rolls out of the way before he leaps. Newton gets to his feet, but Owusu dives in, gets Newton up on his shoulders...

Moreno: Seydou Stunner! Jordan hits the leaping stunner off the top rope! Cover! One...Two... Three!!! It's over! Unstoppabreakable have done it! They've won the League!

Walker van Cleer used his striking and technical precision to assert control for much of this match. However, El Jaguar had Masked Cougar and Devilfish spurring him on. No Tigre, though.

PWL World Tag Championships

Moreno: It's the moment! The first ever PWL Prestige Tag Champions will be crowned tonight – the winners of this match!

MAIN EVENT: Heroes & Hearts vs. Unstoppabreakable

Horwood: And what a matchup it is! The Copa de Primavera winners against the Prestige Tag League winners – four incredibly talented men, who share plenty of history.

Moreno: This is the third match between them, the first being on the kickoff the the Prestige Tag League, which Heroes & Hearts won, while Unstoppabreakable got the victory in the league itself!

Unstoppabreakable are out first. They look focused, determined, and ready to kick ass. Owusu shouts encouragement to Jordan who fires up in response, getting the crowd on their feet.

Moreno: They just beat Findlay & Newton two days ago, but I don't think either will use the effects that physical encounter as an excuse tonight. They're here to give 100%.

Horwood: As you'd expect. We know Riddick Jordan struggled to balance both the tag and singles divisions at the same time, but he's had a couple of weeks to focus only on tag competition.

Heroes & Hearts get a similar ovation from the crowd. The fans seem split about who they want to win, with both teams having a strong following. They're a little more composed, though. Callum has smiles for the crowd, and Makinen appears to be in a comfortable state of mind.

Moreno: You have to think if Makinen is in the mood, he'll prove decisive.

Horwood: That's certainly what Callum is hoping for.

MAIN EVENT: Heroes & Hearts vs. Unstoppabreakable

The new PWL World Tag titles are presented to both teams, then the crowd. The action begins with Konrad Makinen and Riddick Jordan in the ring.

Makinen and Jordan show respect by easing into a lock up. The pace is gentle to begin, but soon picks up with slick chain wrestling and impressive athleticism from both guys. Jordan leaps over a spear attempt and responds with a drop kick, sending Makinen back into his own corner.

Moreno: While Makinen isn't in that crazy state of mind, he still looks pretty composed and capable.

Callum reaches for the tag and faces Jordan. Jordan pulled off a good win against Callum when they met in season 6 of the singles league, and he shows again that he has the technical skill to go hold for hold with the specialist. Callum grows frustrated, but after Jordan nearly finds himself wrapped up in the Honey Trap Leg Lock, he escapes to tag in Kalu Owusu.

The veteran gets a huge cheer from the crowd as he bursts in. He has no intention of grappling with Callum, and instead goes straight for a pumphandle slam and a pair of German suplexes.

Owusu takes control. His size advantage means Callum can't use strength to break free, and when he tries to slip away, Owusu just grabs him and pulls him back. Jordan tags in and out to maintain the offence. The crowd gets behind Callum, mostly because he plays the role of underdog, rather than any dislike towards Unstoppabreakable. Makinen encourages his partner, but many minutes pass with Callum taking a serious beating.

MAIN EVENT: Heroes & Hearts vs. Unstoppabreakable

When Callum finally escapes by wriggling out of a pumphandle slam, he tags in Makinen. But before Makinen enters the ring, Callum, exhausted and clutching his back stops him and says something. Makinen shakes his head, regretfully. Callum pleads with him but can't get a positive response.

Horwood: He wants to know if Makinen is ready to take it to that other place! But Makinen's saying no!

Callum slaps Makinen.

Moreno: That's the way he got it out of him at La Copa! He riled him up with a slap!

But Makinen doesn't respond. He absorbs the slap, but shakes his head again, looking frustrated. Callum slumps to the floor. Makinen jumps into the ring and goes for Owusu, knocking him down with a drop kick. He clears Jordan off the apron with a big forearm, then lands a springboard cutter to Owusu.

Horwood: It's some good offence from Makinen, but it's not what Callum hoped to unleash! I think even Makinen knows it's not good enough!

Sure enough, Owusu reasserts control. He hits a crunching backbreaker on Makinen, then tags in Jordan who hits a Riddickulous (sky twister press). Makinen grit his teeth and kicked out of the resulting pinfall.

MAIN EVENT: Heroes & Hearts vs. Unstoppabreakable

Horwood: If the slap didn't work, Heroes & Hearts are in big trouble!

Makinen scrapes his way across the ring towards Callum, hoping to make the tag. But Callum refuses to tag in. He shouts something at Makinen, barely picked up by the ringside cameras: You have to do this! You have to find it!

Makinen responds, saying he doesn't know how. He can't find the switch. Callum can't hide his frustration and punches Makinen straight in the jaw. Makinen reels back, shocked. Then Callum whacks him again.

For a moment, Makinen stares at him in fury. Anger floods his face as he winds up to strike Callum back, but Callum leaps off the apron and rolls to the side. Makinen is raging.

Moreno: That did it!! Callum struck him – I don't know if he meant to hit him that hard, but now Makinen is in that place!

Makinen turns. Riddick Jordan stands across the ring from him. Spear! Goes to the top rope – Aesir!! Goes back up the ropes – Hero's Journey!!!!

Horwood: Makinen like a raging storm! Jordan doesn't know what hit him!

Moreno: Makinen goes for the cover! Can he get the win off the Hero's Journey?! One...Two...

MAIN EVENT: Heroes & Hearts vs. Unstoppabreakable

Moreno: NOOO!!!! Kalu Owusu breaks up the pin! He got there just in time to keep his team alive!

Makinen gets up and roars at Owusu. The Ivorian roars back, but it's a mistake as Makinen plows into him with a massive spear! He climbs the ropes once again... Hero's Journey!!

Moreno: It's over! Makinen goes hooks the leg... wait! No! Jordan is still the legal man! Owusu just broke up the pin, but never actually tagged in!

Horwood: That just made Makinen even angrier!

Makinen stares at the two bodies on the mat before him. In a feat of amazing strength, he lifts Owusu onto his shoulders and throws him over the top rope, before turning his attention back to Jordan. He places Riddick in position for the Hero's Journey and climbs the ropes yet again.

But Jordan gets to his knees, then wobbles to his feet. Makinen turns to leap off, but then he spots Callum getting onto the apron... He yells at Callum who senses the moment... Cupid's Arrow! Makinen with the Hero's Journey!

Moreno: There's the Hero's Heart!! Makinen makes the pin, surely this time! One...Two... Three!!!! We have our first ever PWL World Tag champions! Makinen was, excuse the choice of words, unstoppable against Owusu and Jordan! And credit to Callum for getting it out of him!

“Valhalla’s Chosen”

Hero’s Journey

Norwegian Pirate

Luis Figo Manico

Nelson
Callum

“Heartbreaker”

Honey Trap

Smooth

As Figo comes to the ring for the title ceremony, Callum tentatively approaches Makinen who now lies exhausted on top of Riddick. When Makinen stirs, the rage and fury is gone from his face. Callum tells him they won. He grins, and they help each other up, then offer a hand to Jordan. They pat their opponent on the back and fist bump Owusu, now in the ring. The losers head off up the entrance ramp.

Figo gets the titles and wraps them around Makinen and Nelson’s waists, then raises their hands to a great ovation.

Moreno: There you have it! First ever P.W.L. World Tag champions – they’ll always be remembered in history! And they’ll defend their titles against the winner of Season 2 which starts next Wednesday!
