Mojonnier Acquires Universal Beverage Equipment

Mojonnier is pleased to announce the acquisition of Universal Beverage Equipment (UBE). One of the owners of UBE, Edward Moriarty, will be joining Mojonnier as part of the acquisition. He will be assuming a role of Manager, Customer Service. Lyle Hatch will also be joining Mojonnier as a CAD designer.

The customers of UBE can rest assured knowing that Mojonnier is a company with over 100 years of experience in the food and beverage industry. Mojonnier is dedicated to continuous innovation as well as high quality products and services. This standard will be upheld as Mojonnier embraces its new customers and works to ensure a seamless transition of UBE.

Matthew Brinn, President of Mojonnier, is thrilled by this acquisition adding, "The purchase of UBE will unite two leading beverage process equipment companies allowing us to better serve our combined customers for the long term."

John Mojonnier, former President and Chairman Emeritus of Mojonnier said, "The combination of Mojonnier and UBE brings together years of blend system and product support knowledge and experience. Having worked with experts from both companies, I believe this development is a win-win situation for both Mojonnier and UBE equipment customers!"

This acquisition takes place on August 31, 2021. If you are a Mojonnier or UBE customer and have any questions relating to this change, please contact:
