THE FIRE AT DUNDEE HARBOUR.

DAMAGE, £30,000.

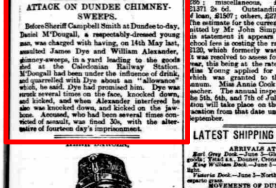
As reported last night in the six o'clock edition of the Evening Telegraph, damage to the extent of over £30,000 was caused by an outbreak of fire in one of the sheds on the low-water jetty at Camperdown Dock. The fire broke out about half-past seven, and ragged fiercely for nearly an hour, with the result that three large sheds and their contents of flax and jute were destroyed. The outbreak occurred in the centre of one of the shed, a building constructed of iron and wood, and which was occupied by Messrs Cox & Co. The Western brakes which prevailed blew the flames and smoke in the direction of the harbour, so a wooden shed filled with flax on the opposite side of the dock was saved. The flames spread, and within a quarter of an hour from the time the fire was discovered Messrs Cox's premises were in a blaze. Meantime the flames spread from the mid-shed to the wooden shed on the north side of the dock, and were well filled with flax and jute, and the fire added to the volume of smoke which for a time hung the shores of the dock had been ruined. The inside of the shed was a seething mass of flame, and the heavy iron beams and supports snapped like pipe-stems. The roof fell in, and the walls of the shed fell. The fire lasted for about 60 hours, and had jute 200 tons, and flax 100 tons. The fire was discovered by Mr Peter Spey, of Dundee, from Raval sat, and by Mr Davidson, of Wards' Wynd. The Harbour Brigade was first on the spot, and shortly afterwards the Central and Dock Brigade. Bowbridge Works Brigade, and Messrs Marshall, Wards' Works, got on the scene o'clock the firemen had got the flames of the fire under control, and a number of men were kept in readiness until the fire was quite extinguished. To-day the material is still smouldering, and a small fire is burned there. A fire squad of men is engaged removing the damage.

THE DAMAGE.

The fire as a whole was of good quality, and may be fairly enough valued at £25 ton. This brings considerably the estimate made, as to the commodity alone of £18,750. Taking the jute at the same figure per ton gives a total value of £5000, which, together, brings the entire loss of material to £23,750. Competent judges state that there will be very little saved from the ruins of the fire or jute. Added to this the destruction of the sheds and premises will bring the total of damage, and plant brings out a total loss of over £30,000. The top planks of the jetties are in many places destroyed, and the under beams and supports have escaped. The loss is fully insured in many cases, but few, if any, of the local Companies or agencies, however, will suffer, as, for the most part, the risk was accepted at the London agencies, and in the case of flax is operative till the material is

ATTACK ON DUNDEE CHIMNEY-SWEEPS.

Before Sheriff Campbell Smith at Dundee to-day, Daniel M'Dougall, a respectably-dressed young man, was charged with having, on the 14th May last, assaulted James Dye and William Alexander, sweeps, employed by John Gardiner, at the door of the Caledonian Railway Station. M'Dougall had been under the influence of drink, and quarrelled with Dye about an "allowance" penny-a-sweep in a yard leading to the goods shed at the Caledonian Railway Station. M'Dougall had been under the influence of drink, and quarrelled with Dye about an "allowance" penny-a-sweep in a yard leading to the goods shed at the Caledonian Railway Station. M'Dougall had been under the influence of drink, and struck several times on the face, knocked down, and kicked, and when he attempted to get up he also was knocked down, and kicked on the jaw-bone. Accused, who had been convicted on three occasions of assault, was fined 30s, with the alternative of fourteen days' imprisonment.



Leader of the Blue Hungarian Band.

Kopecsny, a name now well known as a rising gardener town, situated in the country of Szerrey, about a hundred miles South-West of Buda-Pesth, is the home of the Blue Hungarian Band. It was there, in 1880, that Mr William Johann first met Kopecsny, and formed the first company of musicians, and being struck by the wonderful musical temperament of these men, and the natural music, possessing as it does a richness of harmony that is unsurpassed, he set about the organising and manufacturing arrangements for a visit of these clever musicians to this country.

ASSAULT ON A LABOURER.

In the Dundee Sheriff Court to-day, Colin Sutherson was charged with assaulting Robert Smith—of having assaulted William Robertson, labourer, North Tay Street, by striking him on the face, knocking him to the ground, and kicking him. Parties' previous contentions for assault—four before the Magistrates and one in the Sheriff Court—were admitted. The Sheriff imposed a fine of £2, with the alternative of fourteen days' imprisonment.

DUNDEE POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY—Before Bailie Penman.

There were 21 cases on the roll. Three were of a trivial nature, and were disposed of by bail or fine. Two persons were convicted of breach of the peace, and fined 10s each, or ten days' imprisonment. Of 16 charges of drunkenness, 15 were proved, and fines, with the option of ten days' imprisonment, were imposed in each case. Richard Rimer, Dalzil Distillery, Lawrence Lindsay, Dundee Distillery, and Robert Ritchie, Dundee Distillery, pled guilty to a charge of having, on the 24th ult., assaulted Robert Bell (20), millworker, Wilkie's Lane, when Rimer struck Bell on the face with his fist, and Lindsay and Ritchie struck him with sticks. Rimer was fined £2, or ten days' imprisonment, and Lindsay and Ritchie, who had no visible means of support, and who pled guilty to making the assault, but denied the charge of robbery, were each fined £1, or ten days' imprisonment. Bell, who was under the influence of drink at the time, declared that he had been robbed of 10s, but the Bailie pointed out that there was no evidence to show that he had had that amount in his possession, and dismissed the charge of robbery. Alexander Watson, who was sent to the higher Court, was fined £1, or sentenced to six days in prison, for having assaulted his wife in the house.

DISART SCHOOL BOARD AFFAIRS.

Last night a meeting was held at the bath-room place in the Boarderdam—Bailie Halliday in the chair. The Finance Committee's report as to the estimates of the year was read, and the Board agreed to adopt generally the Committee's recommendations. The estimates, as adopted, contained thirteen, ranging from £2 10s to £10. The total income was £2,000, and £1,900 for Teachers and Compulsory Officer's salaries were also increased by £50 per annum. Mr Mackie objected against the increase to the Clerk's salary. The Committee's recommendation to increase by £50 per annum was carried by a majority of 4 to 3. The Committee's report showed a deficiency of £447 to be, to meet which the school fees were raised to 1d per week for owners and 2d on tenants and occupiers. The Committee also recommended that the fees of teachers be paid monthly salaries, in place of quarterly as at present, was agreed to.

PITTENWEEM PAROCHIAL BOARD.

A LIVELY SCRAP.

Several lively scenes occurred at the half-yearly meeting of Pittenweem Parochial Board last night. Mr W. Galloway, baker, put several questions to the Chairman, Mr Provost Gilchrist, in regard to the paupers, and not being answered to his satisfaction, he left the meeting in a huff. Chairman said he was a perfect "Shuffle Keir" as regards the conducting of the Board's business. He demanded whether the Board were to provide one of the paupers with a nurse at the visitation of the Board of Supervision, or the School Board and of the assistant parish minister. He objected to the Board's action in this matter, and it was nothing but a—[—impertinence on their part to attempt to dictate to the Inspector of the Board. The Chairman said such language was out of order, and he would not allow it to be used again. Subsequently Mr Galloway applied a very coarse epithet to the action of the women paupers. The Chairman again rebuked him, and Mr Galloway told him he was not making a perfect fool of himself. Ex-Bailie Christie also protested against the use of such very coarse language. Mr Galloway, evidently incensed at Mr Christie, rose to his feet and went at the ex-Bailie, threatening to strike him, and several members interfered. Mr Galloway became in a frightful attitude, pulling off their coats and squaring up to each other, and after the exchange of one or two of the members got in between them and withdrawing Mr Galloway from the room. He left lasted caused some sensation, and afforded plenty for the community the rest of the evening.

TAYPORT.—A meeting of Tayport School Board was held in the Board-Room last night—Rev. G. Gilchrist, Chairman, presiding. The report on attendance was considered satisfactory. The number on the roll was 377; average, 341. In 1891 the 377; average attendance, 409. The percentage of attendance was accordingly 90·6. Passed in the infant department, 82, against 86 and 81 respectively in 1890 and 1889. The percentage of passes for the past year was submitted by the Treasurer, Mr D. Mitchell, Secretary, as follows:—Reading, 94·5; writing, 94·5; arithmetic, 94·5; needlework, 94·5; grammar, 94·5; geography, 94·5; history, 94·5; drawing, 94·5; singing, 94·5; science, 94·5; average, 94·5. TRADE AND FINANCE.

BELFAST LINEN TRADE.

Our market has been featureless throughout the week, and the amount of business carried through was not up to the previous one. Stocktaking will be on in a few weeks now, and until finished will have a quieting effect on trade. In Bleached and Finished Linens the demand on hands account has been exceedingly limited. Messrs Robert Barr of Lawns, which have met with increased attention. Tailoring Linens have been in slow request, and stocks are not going into consumption with any degree of activity. Cambrics are quiet, although in small lots, and prices are fairly steady. Jaconettes, Dimities do not show much change at the moment. Ballymenas have met with fair inquiry, and some parcels have been sold for Belfast. There is no life in Cambric Handkerchiefs, which continue getting gradually smaller owing to the competition of Cotton and Union makes. Linen Handkerchiefs have not altered, but assumed large proportions, the demand generally being of a limited character. Messrs Barr & Co. up with the United States, and Piece Linens are in request, but no satisfactory amount was passed, and the Court proceeded to business.
