6: OBI-WAN, YODA, QUI-GON
Join us.

And indeed we do, we follow their voices. The star gets closer and closer, everything becomes brighter and brighter all around us, then for a quick moment...DARKNESS...and for the first time, in way too much time, we hear ANAKIN SKYWALKER SPEAK.

7: ANAKIN
Masters...I...

And he falls. But just when he is about to land hard on the foggy floor, he stops and floats again. He stretches out his hands to touch the floor beneath him.

And he slowly, gently lands on the ground.

Again, nothing but silence. where is he? he is on his knees, alone. he breathes, he can actually breath, by himself, not by the help of a suit, that has imprisoned him for too long.

He feels his right hand. It's not robotic, it's HIS hand. He is shaking. He sits down and stretches his legs. He has forgotten the feeling of feeling. Of breathing. Of seeing with his own eyes.

He feels now.

He sees now.

He breathes now.

He is....free.

We, for the first time in what feels like a thousand years, see ANAKINS FACE. It is neither burnt, nor distorted in any way. He feels his face.

As if he had never felt it before. For this moment, he is happy. He is Anakin Skywalker again. As if everything had never happened.

He smiles and looks at his hands in front of him. Then he realizes it....

Everything indeed happened, and the kind and glowing smile we once knew and loved, vanishes again from his face and the shocking sadness overwhelms him.

His eyes start watering and he puts his hands on his face and....cries.

Softly..quiet..to himself.

Why did everything happen, why did it have to come to this..

He remembers PADME, their time on Naboo. Their love. Their life. His life. His Master...his....

8:                           OBI-WAN
                          Well..it did take you a bit longer...but...

Anakin looks up. OBI-WAN KENOBI stands in front of him, his arms crossed.

He is outlined with shimmering blue-light. He is a force ghost.

9:                           OBI-WAN
                          You have arrived.

Their eyes meet. Once again, student and master are reunited.....
