Emonee LaRussa is a 20-year old student currently attending Art Institute of California majoring Digital Filmmaking and Video Production. She discovered her passion for film and VFX in high school took her two years of higher-level film courses in the International Baccalaureate Diploma program. She has since then won an award for “Best New Story” and “Best Title Sequence” at the 2014 Next Talent Awards plus “Best Editor” at the 2013 Sacramento Intercollegiate 48-hour Film Challenge.

Having a deep love for television and movies she has grown a deep appreciation of the art form and tries to establish her own adaptations from other great films such as; Little Miss Sunshine, Requiem for a Dream, Across the Universe and much more. She hopes that one day she too, can be apart of the film industry and make amazing pieces that people around the world will love.
