Be a Pokémaster

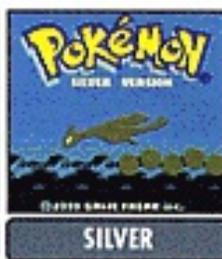

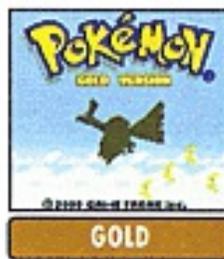

If you're reading this book, you're on your way to becoming a Pokémaster. You've probably finished Red, Blue or Yellow and maybe even Gold or Silver, and now you want to know everything about each Pokémon, including its attacks, where to catch it and its evolutions. This book has all of that information—and more.

Precious Pokémon Paks

Pokémon Gold and Silver are the latest glittering entries in the phenomenal Pokémon series that has taken the world by storm. The two games feature a new hero and story line and are filled with many new Pokémon in addition to most of the original 151 Pokémon from Red, Blue and Yellow.

Morning, Day, Night

Time passes in Gold and Silver's world the way it does in your world. At the beginning of the game you'll be asked for the time of day and, later, the day of the week. If you set your game to the actual time and day of the week, it will be noon on a Tuesday in the game when it's noon on a Tuesday in the world outside the game. At 6 p.m., the sun goes down as day fades into night, and it gets darker in the game world. It becomes morning at 4 a.m., then day again at 10 a.m.

You will find Hoothoot only at night—never in the morning or day.

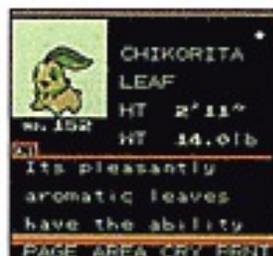

Using the New Pokédex

The Pokédex has been improved in Gold and Silver. It has three ways of displaying Pokémon. You can view the Pokémon in evolutionary order in the New Pokédex Mode, which has Chikorita displayed first. Pokémon are listed by official number in the Old Pokédex Mode, with Bulbasaur displayed first. In A to Z Mode, which is alphabetical, Abra is displayed first. You can switch modes at any time.

New Pokédex Mode

Old Pokédex Mode

The A to Z Mode may be self-explanatory, but the Old and New Pokédex Modes can be confusing. With all of those creatures to keep straight, nearly any system would be confusing!

Catch 'Em All!

Hundreds of Pokémon populate Gold and Silver, and there are many different things you must do if you want to catch them all. You'll encounter some Pokémon in the wild as you walk through tall grass or Surf along the water, but other Pokémon must be hatched from Eggs or evolved from other Pokémon using Evolution Stones.

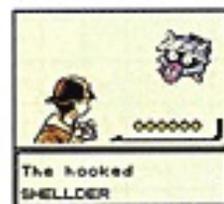

WILD POKÉMON

Many Pokémon are found in the wild, lurking in the tall grass you encounter in many places. Occasionally, wild Pokémon will attack, and you can fight and catch them.

SURF

Once you've learned to use Surf out of battle, you can glide along the water in many areas of Johto and Kanto. Wild Water-types may attack you as you're floating along the water.

FISHING

Other Water-types can be hooked by the three fishing rods you'll pick up at various points in the game. When you get a bite, the hooked Pokémon will attack and you'll fight it.

SPECIAL SITUATIONS

The Game Corners in Goldenrod City and Celadon City offer select Pokémon as prizes you can trade in your coins for. Several Trainers will trade for or give you Pokémon, too.

EGGS

The pre-evolved forms of a few Pokémon are caught by hatching an Egg produced by at least one Pokémon of the same evolutionary chain. Pikachu is just one Pokémon with a pre-evolution.

LEVEL-UP EVOLUTION

Many Pokémon are evolutions of other Pokémon, and you can't catch them in the wild—you have to raise them until they evolve to the next Pokémon in the evolutionary series.

CHIKORITA

BAYLEEF

SUNKERN

SUNFLORA

POLIWHIRL

POLITOEED

STONE EVOLUTION

A handful of Pokémon require an Evolutionary Stone to evolve. Once you've won or been given a stone, you can use it on your Pokémon to evolve it to its next stage.

LINK TRADE EVOLUTION

You'll need the help of another Pokémon player, a Game Link Cable and sometimes an item to catch some Pokémon. Trade the Pokémon with the item (if necessary) to catch its next evolution.

FRIENDSHIP EVOLUTION

Perhaps the trickiest type of evolution is Friendship Evolution. If you treat your Pokémon with the utmost respect and care until it is very happy and very attached to you, it will evolve.

CHANSEY

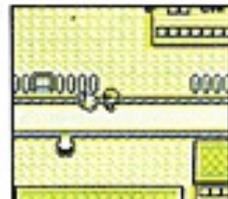

BLISSEY

Red, Blue and Yellow, Too!

If you really want to catch them all, you have to play Red, Blue and Yellow, too. Some Pokémon, like Zapdos and Mewtwo, not to mention Bulbasaur, Charmander and Squirtle, don't appear in Gold and Silver but do appear in Red, Blue and Yellow. Once you have access to the Time Capsule in Gold and Silver, you can trade Pokémon to and from Gold and Silver and Red, Blue and Yellow. You can't trade new Pokémon or Pokémon with new attacks from Gold and Silver into Red, Blue and Yellow.

The Time Capsule will be available after you meet Bill in Ecruteak City.

Your Pokémon from Red, Blue or Yellow can be transferred into Gold and Silver so you can have 'em all!

Pokémon Combat Chart

While many pairs of opposing Pokémon are relatively evenly matched, the different Pokémon types all have weaknesses and strengths against various attack types. The chart to the right shows each Pokémon type's relative weakness to each attack type. Other factors, such as the attacking Pokémon's type and Critical Hits, also determine how much damage an attack will do.

NORMAL Physical attacks are listed in yellow.

FIRE Special attacks are listed in blue.

Your Attack Type

Attack Advantage

Dual-type Pokémon (like Water-and-Flying-type, Gyarados) can have a double advantage, since they boast two sets of characteristics. But they can also be at a double disadvantage if you pit the right Pokémon against them. In the example, Electric-type Pikachu boosts its Thunderbolt attack by 1.5 times since both the attack and the Pokémon are of the same type. The attack strength is then multiplied by two since Electric-types have an advantage over Water-types. But that's not all—Electric-types also dominate over Flying-types, so the total damage is multiplied by two yet again!

PHYSICAL OR SPECIAL

Attacks shown in black are physical attacks. Pokémon with a high Attack rating will do well with them. Attacks shown in red are Special Attacks, which are particularly effective when used by Pokémon with a high Special Attack rating.

RECOMMENDED

Attacks shown in red are strongly recommended for use with the Pokémon. They work well with the Pokémon's natural abilities or will otherwise benefit you and your Pokémon.

Specially Colored Pokémon

Recently, I began studying the extremely rare specially colored Pokémon that you might have heard of or seen in your Pokémon travels. The most famous example of a specially colored Pokémon, the Red Gyarados in the Lake of Rage, exhibits the classic attributes of a specially colored Pokémon—it shines before it attacks, and it has special markings next to its gender when stored in Bill's PC. While everyone will encounter the Red Gyarados, other specially colored Pokémon are extremely rare—you may never run into one at all. All Pokémon found in the wild can be specially colored, but your chances of finding one or more are slim.

The Pokérus

Several of my friends who treat Pokémon at Pokémon Centers have reported a strangely beneficial syndrome called the Pokérus. The condition does no harm; in fact, Pokémon Trainers will notice some interesting results if they use infected Pokémon in battle. The easiest way to know for sure whether your Pokémon are infected with the Pokérus is to take them to a Pokémon Center. After the creatures have been healed, you'll get a different message than you would usually. The Pokémon Center will alert me and I will call you to explain that your Pokémon have the Pokérus. The Pokérus wears off after a short time, making it difficult to study.

When your Pokémon is infected, its entry in your lineup will reflect the condition in the status section. After the condition is gone, a small black dot will remain.

Mystery Gift and Your Room

Budding Pokémon Trainers should talk to everyone in the Goldenrod City Department Store—one girl in particular will tell you about the Mystery Gift function. Once you've talked to the girl, you can select Mystery Gift from the Start menu to beam random gifts to your friends via the Game Boy Color's infrared port. You can decorate your room with many of the gifts you'll receive, including Pokémon dolls, posters, plants and carpets. You may also receive Elixirs, Berries, X Defends and even Poké Balls or Evolution Stones!

PROF. ELM'S MEMO*Pokémon Pikachu 2 GS

My studies have shown that Pokémon Gold and Silver players who have a Game Boy Color and Pokémon Pikachu 2 GS can send the Watts they earn in Pokémon Pikachu 2 GS to Gold or Silver by infrared communication. Choose Send from your Pokémon Pikachu 2 GS menu, then choose the number of Watts you'd like to send to Pokémon Gold or Silver as a Mystery Gift. Your Gold or Silver game will receive different gifts for different Watt totals. The list below explains how many Watts it will take to produce each item.

Mystery Gift List

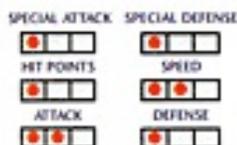

1-99W	MAIL
100-199W	BERRY
200-299W	BITTER BERRY
300-399W	GREAT BALL
400-499W	MAX REPEL
500-599W	ETHER
600-699W	MIRACLE BERRY
700-799W	GOLD BERRY
800-899W	ELIXIR
900-998W	REVIVE
999W	RARE CANDY

Mail System

Pokémon can hold items in Gold and Silver, even when they're traded to another Game Pak. You can give mail to your Pokémon before you trade it to send a surprise message to a friend. You'll find many types of mail in the Pokémon Marts around Johto and Kanto, and you're also bound to receive some mail through Mystery Gift as well. You can save the messages you receive on your Game Pak, and you can print the messages out with the Game Boy Printer.

Make Friends

One recent Pokémon discovery involves the friendliness factor in some Pokémon's evolution. There are several things you should do to stay on good terms with your Pokémon, and several other things you should avoid for the same reason.

Do:

Take your Pokémon to be groomed by Blun's sister in Pallet Town.

Get haircuts from Goldenrod's Haircut Brothers—especially the older one.

Keep your Pokémon in your party continually.

Use items on your Pokémon and allow it to hold an item.

Don't:

Let your Pokémon faint in battle, get very weak, or stay paralyzed or poisoned for any length of time.

Make your Pokémon take bitter medicine from the herb shop in Goldenrod City. Try not to trade away Pokémon you wish to befriend.

Friendly Evolution

After an exhaustive study of every Pokémon known to science, I have concluded that several Pokémon will evolve only when they are very attached to their Trainers—a process called Friendly Evolution. The Pokémon below will evolve when they gain a level after reaching optimum friendliness with their Trainer. Please study my memo on the preceding page to find hints on befriending Pokémon.

The Poké Ball Maker

Kurt the Poké Ball Maker is a good person to know. After you help him defeat Team Rocket in Azalea Town, he will return to his house, where you can visit him. Kurt handcrafts Poké Balls from the Apricorns you find on some trees around Johto. Apricorns come in several different shades that produce different types of Poké Balls. Take an Apricorn to Kurt, then return the next day to pick up your new Poké Ball.

Kurt's Poké Balls

Fast Ball (White Apricorn)

Use a Fast Ball when you're trying to catch a Pokémon that runs away quickly, such as Raikou or Skarmory.

Lure Ball (Blue Apricorn)

Try bringing out a Lure Ball when you're fishing for Pokémon and you've got one hooked.

Level Ball (Red Apricorn)

The Level Ball works best when your Pokémon's level is much higher than the opposing Pokémon's level.

Heavy Ball (Black Apricorn)

Large, heavy Pokémon such as Snorlax or Onix will be easier to catch if you use a Heavy Ball.

Love Ball (Pink Apricorn)

When the Pokémon you're trying to catch is of the opposite gender as your attacking Pokémon, use a Love Ball.

Friend Ball (Green Apricorn)

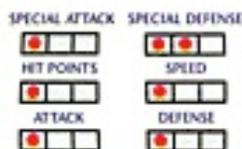

Any Pokémon you catch with a Friend Ball will become attached to you very quickly. Use Friend Balls on Pokémon you like.

Moon Ball (Yellow Apricorn)

It's easier to capture Pokémon that evolve with the Moon Stone if you use a Moon Ball instead of a regular Poké Ball.

False Swipe

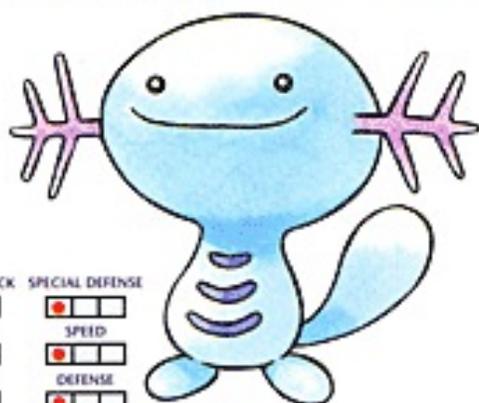

The attack known as False Swipe is an amazingly effective aid for capturing wild Pokémon. It will always leave an opponent with one hit point, making it very weak but still awake and vulnerable. False Swipe is a Normal-type attack that Farfetch'd, Scyther, Cubone and other Pokémon can learn at different levels. The attack's base damage is not high, but it usually has 40 PP.

Link Trade Evolution

It's well-documented that some Pokémon won't evolve unless they are traded via Game Link Cable to another Pokémon Game Pak. Other Pokémon must be carrying a specific item when they're traded, or they won't evolve. Trade Pokémon with someone you trust. Remember that traded Pokémon gain boosted experience points.

Rock Smash

One effective but little-known technique for catching Pokémon involves using Rock Smash outside of battle. When you come to a rock that seems a bit cracked or crumbled already, try walking up to it and pressing A. A dialogue box will pop up and ask if you'd like to use Rock Smash (if there's a Pokémon in your party that has Rock Smash). You might find a Pokémon hiding under the rock. Talk to the man to the right of Sudowoodo on Route 36 to pick up Rock Smash.

Fun With Unown

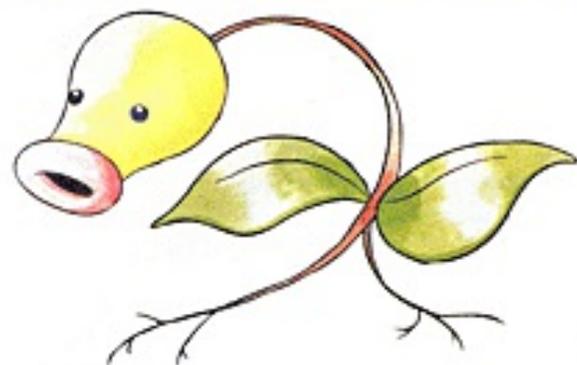

The mysterious Psychic-type creatures called Unown come in 26 shapes that correspond to the alphabet! After you catch three differently shaped Unown, you can pick up the Unowndex from the researchers near the Ruins of Alph. After you solve all four of the puzzles in the caves surrounding the Ruins of Alph, you will be able to catch all 26 differently shaped Unown. Once you've caught all 26, you'll earn the option to print out the Unown with your Game Boy Printer. There are all sorts of fun things you could do with the letter-shaped Pokémon. Use your imagination!

Headbutt Help

Once you've located TM 02, Headbutt, in Ilex Forest, you can use it in battle as an attack and outside of battle as an aid for catching Pokémon. Walk up to the small, triangular trees and press A. When asked if you'd like to use Headbutt, answer yes. Any Pokémon lurking in the trees will come tumbling to the ground. Check the chart on the next page for the Pokémon that you'll find by Headbutting trees.

Pokémon Eggs

The Pokémon Daycare on Route 33 just south of Goldenrod City is also a Pokémon Breeding Center. You can leave two of your Pokémon in the care of the couple that staffs the center. If the two Pokémon get along very well, they may also produce an Egg. While Pokémon science hasn't yet discovered exactly how the Eggs are produced, it does recognize that the young Pokémon won't hatch from the Eggs unless they are traveling with a strong, healthy group of active Pokémon. You can walk outside the Daycare and press A to check on your Pokémon. You'll get a message that will let you know whether or not you'll be picking up an Egg.

Check the Message

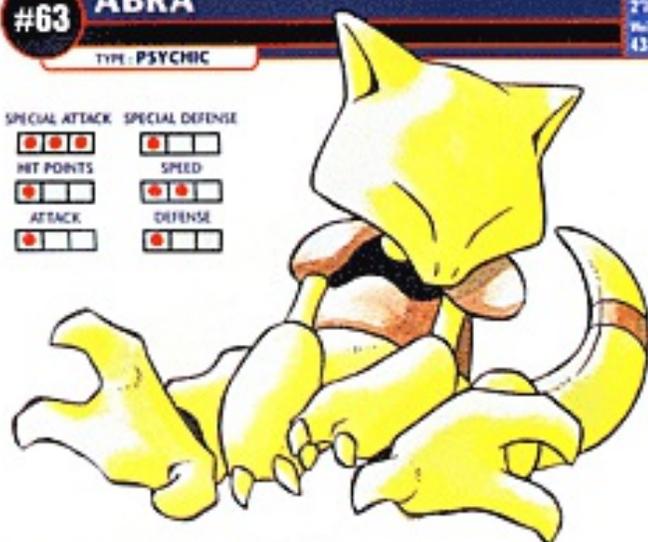

Some messages mean you'll be getting an Egg, while others mean no Egg will be produced.

- It appears to care for other Pokémon
- It shows interest in the other Pokémon
- It's friendly with the other Pokémon
- It's brimming with energy
- It has no interest in the other Pokémon

Pokémon Pairing

Many pairings can produce a Pokémon Egg. Two of the same Pokémon will produce a younger version of the same Pokémon. Two different Pokémon will most likely produce a Pokémon of the same species as the female Pokémon. The young Pokémon will share traits with both parents, however.

Pokémon Egg—Ditto

Some Pokémon are neither male nor female. The genderless Pokémon can produce Eggs if paired with a Ditto.

Ditto

Not surprisingly, any Pokémon that can produce Eggs will produce Eggs when paired with a Ditto, whether the Pokémon is male, female or genderless. Every pairing with Ditto will produce a younger version of the other Pokémon—Pichu and Ditto will produce a Pichu, Magnetron and Ditto will produce a Magnemite, and Kangaskhan and Ditto will produce a Kangaskhan. If you want to create a younger version of a Pokémon that is exclusively male, like Tauros, you must pair it with a Ditto.

Trainers Calling

You may not like to give your phone number out to just any Trainer, but if you want to catch some of the rarest Pokémon in the game, you will want to give your number to the following six Trainers. Each one will call you for the usual Pokémon updates, but occasionally one will also let you know where a rare Pokémon is hiding, as listed below.

PROF. ELM'S MEMO

Smeargle's Sketch

Recent breakthroughs in Smeargle research show that it learns one attack, Sketch, which allows it to copy any Pokémon move from another Pokémon. It's not easy to teach the creature moves—patience is required. Moves learned during a Game Link battle will be forgotten after the battle is over, so if you want Smeargle to remember a move, teach it during an in-game battle. If you have two Game Paks and two Game Boy Colors, you can put a Pokémon with a move you want to copy as the only member of one Pak's party (preferably with just the one move as well), then Mystery Gift with the Pak that has Smeargle. Next, head to the Trainer House with Smeargle to battle—you will battle the Pokémon that has the move you want. Use Sketch to copy the move. Smeargle will learn Sketch several times as it gains levels, which means you can copy moves several more times until you have a very powerful Pokémon—so powerful, it may be banned in some competitions.

PROF. ELM'S MEMO

Rare Pokémon

While it's true that many Pokémon are quite common, several Pokémon are very rare in Gold and Silver and you should take extreme caution when trying to capture them. If you can, save your game before you try to capture some of the rare creatures. You can choose to take Chikorita, Cyndaquil or Totodile from me. If you have friends who have chosen different creatures, however, you can ask them to hatch the creatures that you didn't pick for you at the Daycare Center.

Chikorita, Cyndaquil and Totodile are very rare Pokémon. Once you choose one from my lab at the beginning of the game, you won't be able to choose either of the other two.

#155 CYDAQUIL

#158 TOTODILE

#250 HO-OH

The one-of-a-kind Legendary Bird, Ho-oh, can be caught at the top of Tin Tower—but if you accidentally make it faint, you won't get another chance. Take many Poké Balls with you when you try to capture the creature.

#249 LUGIA

Lugia is also a Legendary Bird, and it's as rare as Ho-oh. If you're playing Silver, you'll be able to capture Lugia first. If you're playing Gold, Ho-oh will appear first. The second Legendary Bird you try to capture will be very tough.

#133 EEEVEE

Eevee can be found in two places: Bill's house and Celadon City's Game Corner. You'll probably want more than one Eevee so you can raise several of the different Eevee evolutions. Try raising a few more at the Daycare Center.

#142 AERODACTYL

There is only one Aerodactyl in Gold and Silver, and it's found in the hands of a Trainer on Route 14. Take a Chansey with you to Route 14, or catch one nearby, and be prepared to trade it to the Trainer for her Aerodactyl.

#143 SNORLAX

Before you wake the sleeping Snorlax near Vermilion City, you should save your game. If you accidentally knock out the Snorlax, start over—it's the only one in the game.

More Rare Pokémon

Some Pokémon are difficult to catch in addition to being rare. The three unsightly creatures, Raikou, Entei and Suicune, will run away from you the first time you encounter them in the Burned Tower and every time you see them thereafter. To capture the elusive beasts, keep Pokémon that can use Mean Look or Spider Web at the head of your party so you can trap the creatures before they run away. You may also be able to capture the three with a Fast Ball, and, of course, a Master Ball will always do the trick. Try using Max Repel or Super Repel in an area where few Pokémon reside—one of the three just might appear.

#243 RAIKOU

#244 ENTEI

#245 SUICUNE

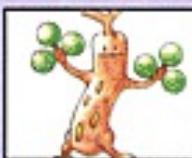

#175 TOGEPI

Keep the Mystery Egg you receive from my assistant in your party—it will hatch into the only Togepi in the game. If you'd like to create more Togepi, leave the Pokémon at the Daycare near Goldenrod City.

#236 TYROGUE

If you can find and defeat the Karate King inside Mt. Mortar, he will reward you with one of the rarest Pokémon in Gold and Silver—Tyrogue, the pre-evolved form of Hitmonchan, Hitmonlee and Hitmontop.

#185 SUDOWOODO

The weird tree that blocks your path to Route 36 is the only Sudowoodo in the game. The Rock-type creature is not a tree at all, and Water-type attacks are very effective on it. If it faints, your only chance to catch it will be lost.

#137 PORYGON

If you're very good at games of chance or have lots of spare money to change into coins, you can pick up a Porygon in the Celadon City Game Corner. The rare creature will set you back 9,999 coins, so start saving up!

Have You Seen Mew?

Even people who don't study Pokémon know that Mew is a very rare creature that cannot be caught in a normal way—you must get the Pokémon from Nintendo for it to be a true, official Mew. There have been numerous giveaways and events where the secret 151st Pokémon has been given away. Some of my colleagues in faraway places speak of a similar hidden Pokémon that you can't catch in Gold and Silver. Could it be true? If such a creature exists, it will likely be as difficult to acquire and as rare as Mew was before it. Keep your eyes open for opportunities.

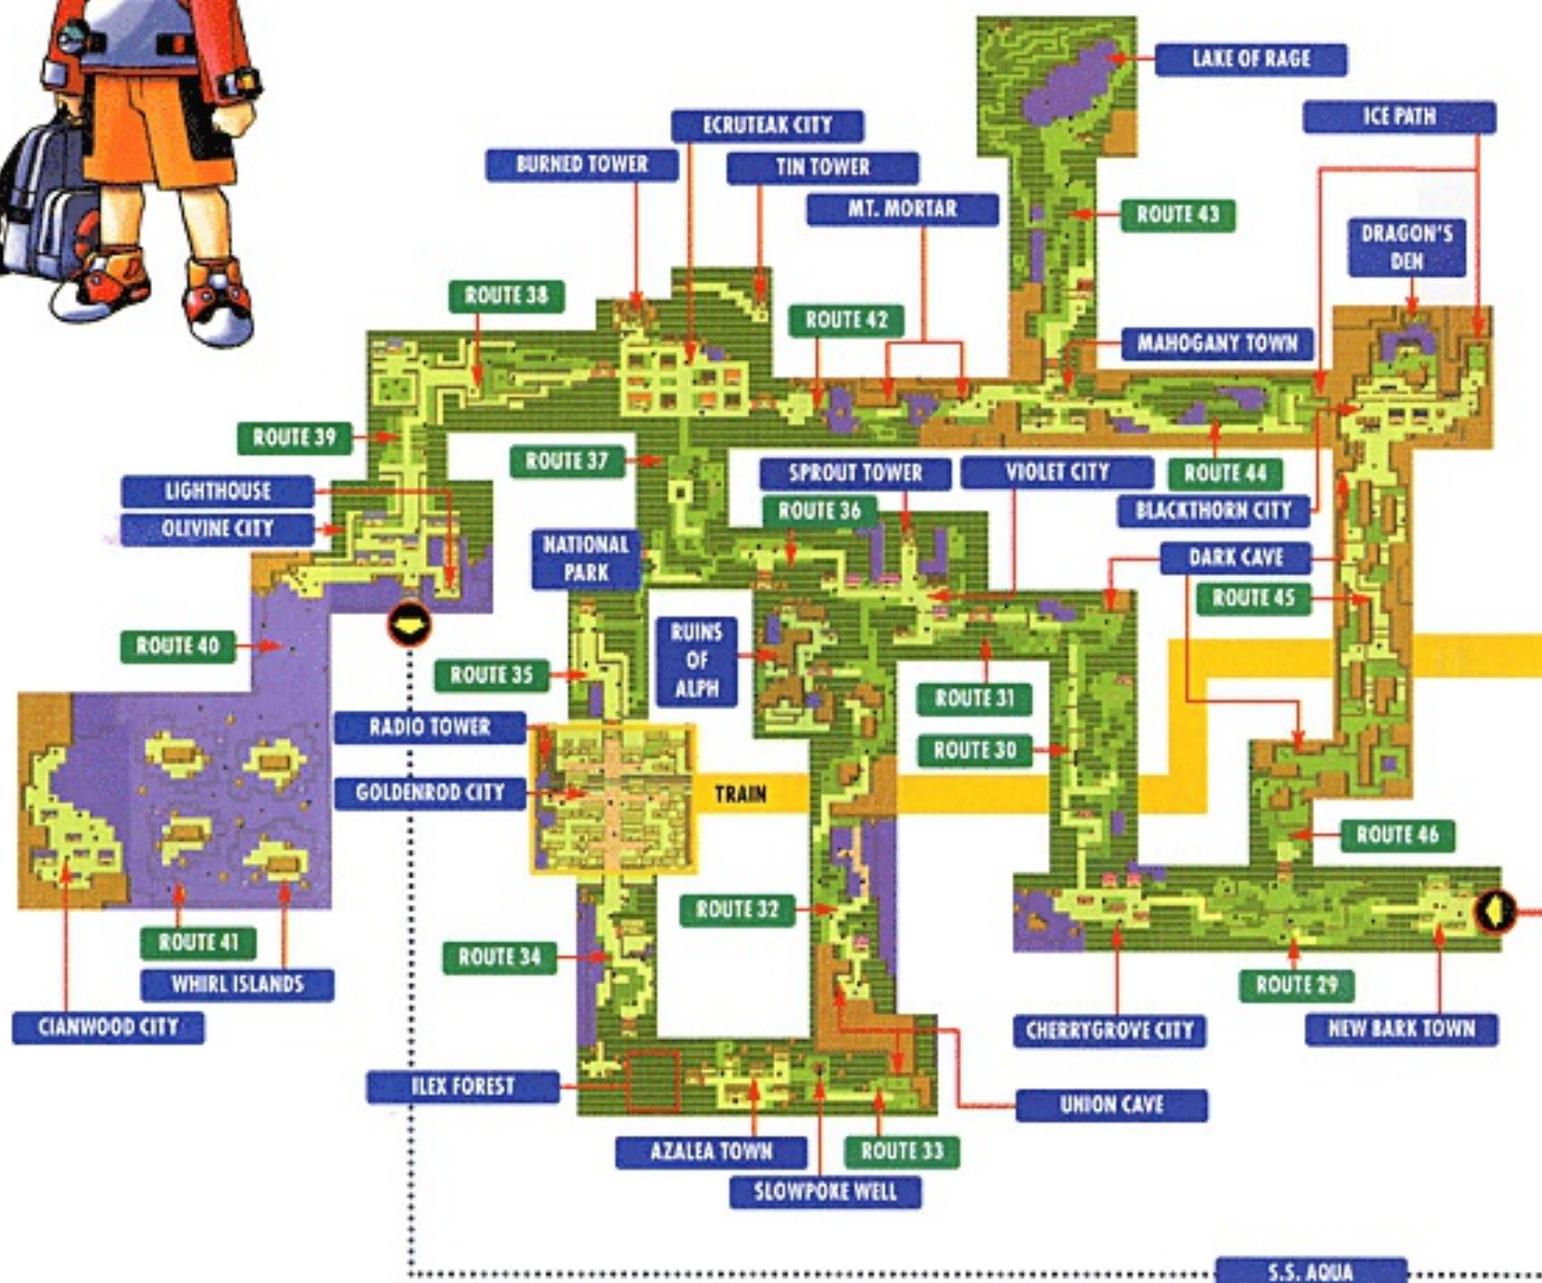

Elm's Archives

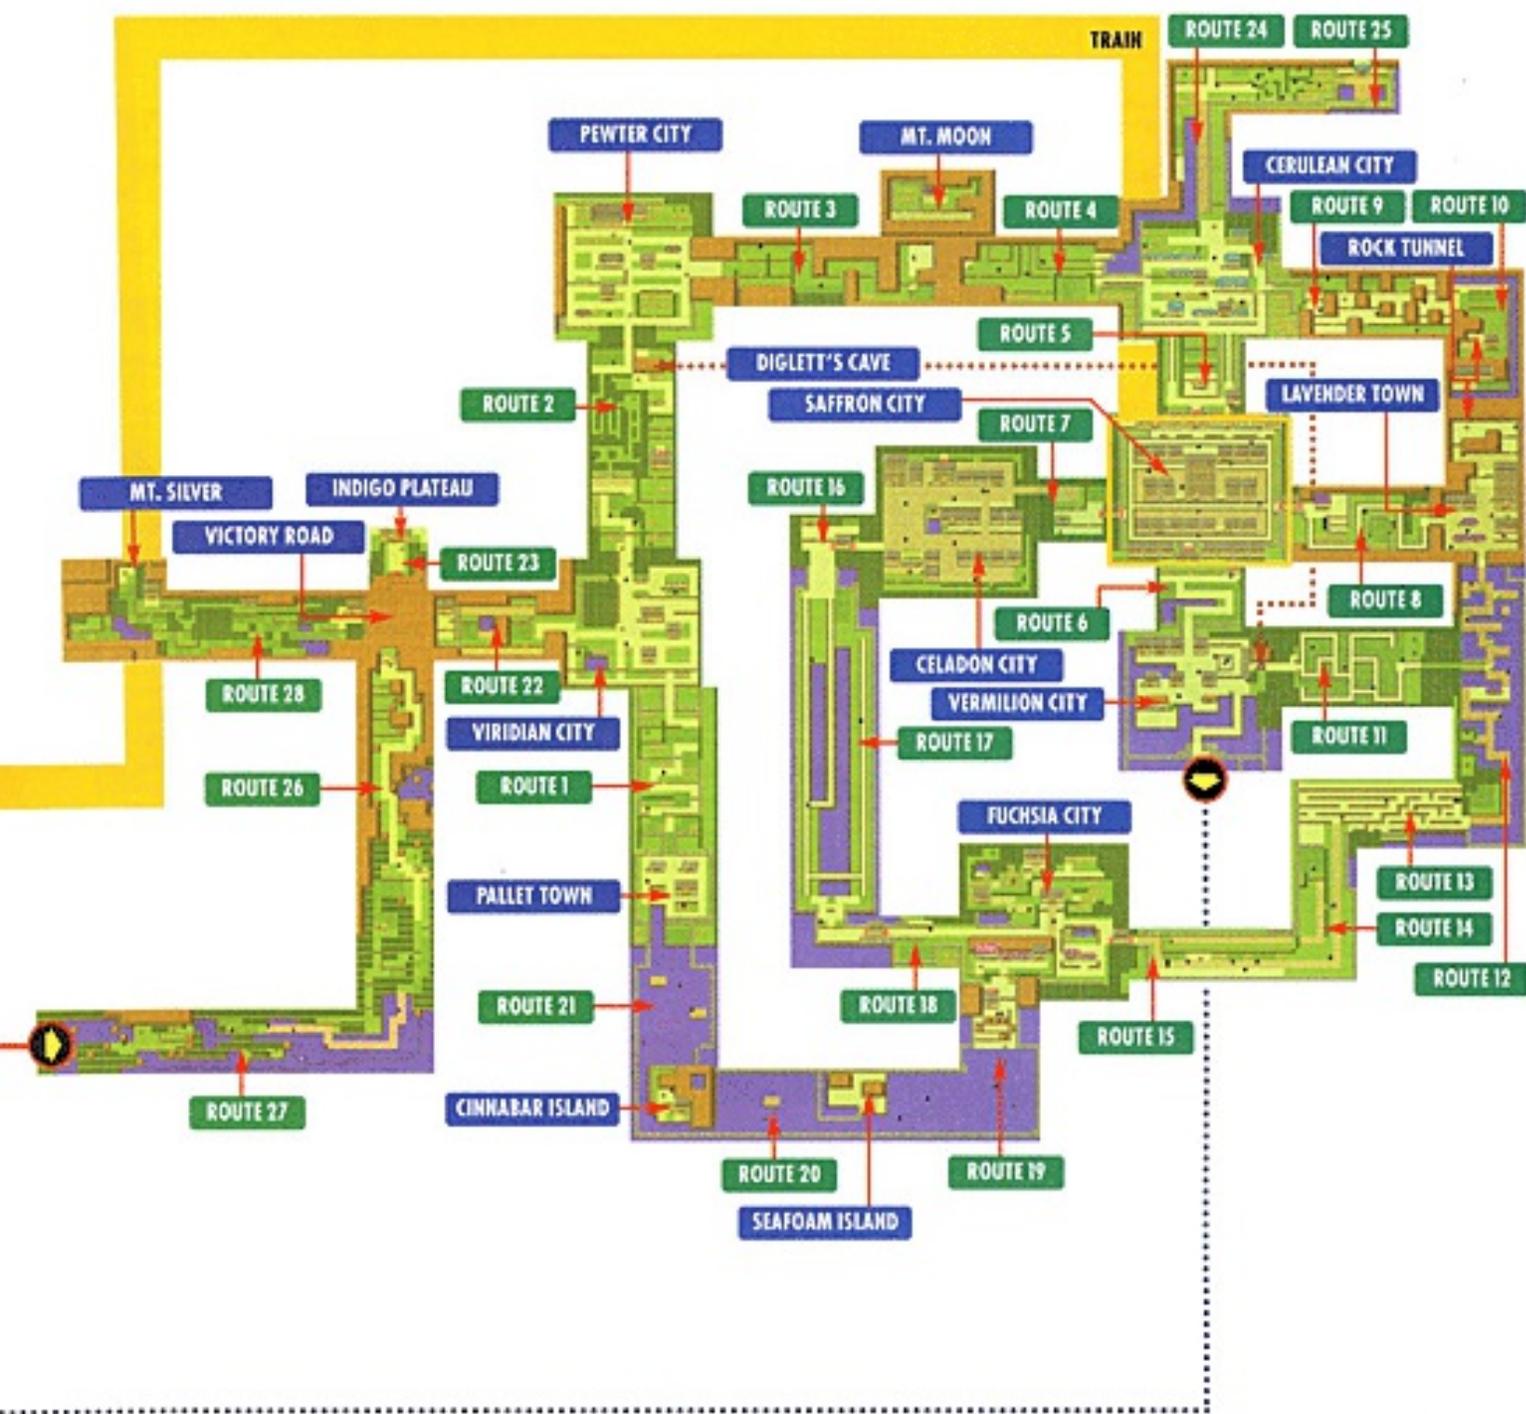

World Map

Pokémon Gold and Silver begin in Johto. After you defeat the Elite Four, you'll make your way through Kanto, where Red, Blue and Yellow took place. The two lands are connected to each other physically, and it's easiest to travel between them by way of the train.

Reading the Locator

The Pokémon Locators on the following pages present an exhaustive reference for catching all the wild Pokémon in Gold and Silver. The information about where to catch each Pokémon is presented twice—once by area name and once by the name of the Pokémon. Colors, icons and abbreviations are used in the Pokémon Locator, so study the keys.

A 3D rendered Mario character in his signature red cap with a white 'M', blue overalls, and white gloves. He is shown from the waist up, leaning forward with a wide, happy smile. His right hand is raised to his forehead, and his left hand is clenched into a fist. A thought bubble is positioned above his head, and a speech bubble is to his right. The background is plain white.

Wow, That 420 sure makes some nice scans....
