Cargo charter or groupage load?

No matter how many boxes or a single one you've got, we make sure that your shipment gets to the plane on time.

Packing individual boxes together with the goods of other shippers is usually done on an aircraft sheet board or in an air cargo container. Typically, such a load is handled through scheduled flights.

Air freight service is limitless with us

Preparation of transport documents

In order to ship air freight, various documents need to be prepared. There are four types of AWB; Direct, Back-to-Back, Master, and House. For your convenience, we can prepare the Air Waybill and the customs documents, such as the Export Accompanying Document or the EUR1 Movement Certificate, on your behalf. Furthermore, we can help you prepare country-specific documents.

Onboard courier service

Our service extends beyond the air freight carrier terminal. We can provide you with an onboard courier service that will bring your goods directly to the aircraft, if that is what you desire. read here Most of these are small shipments, which you can fit in your hand luggage in some cases. Whether they are components or spare parts for machines, or luxury goods: your goods are monitored by the onboard courier throughout the flight to ensure they reach their destination on time and intact. After your customer receives the goods, they can pick them up directly from the airport or we can arrange for their transport to the final destination.

Temperature-controlled goods: active and passive cooling

A distinction is made between passive and active cooling when cooling goods controlled by temperature.

Freight Charges When you use active cooling, the temperature of your cold-sensitive goods remains constant along the entire transport route. The temperature specification can be set at, for instance, +15 to +25 degrees Celsius.

Packages can be passively cooled based on the product and the packaging. The temperature specification is only guaranteed for the flight and the airport warehouse. Despite the shipment being transported on a temperature-controlled vehicle to the aircraft, delays on the tarmac might mean that the temperature cannot be maintained.
