

What is the process to change the language settings on MSN?

Users may not be comfortable with the language settings of their MSN account and may want to set a language with which they are more comfortable. But the trouble is that there are users who don't like to don a technical hat. If that is the case then users must take assistance from the brilliant technicians to learn about the steps involved. The best way for doing that is to contact the technical support team of MSN.

Following are the steps to change the language settings on MSN as provided by MSN technical support team:-

- In the very first step, all users must sign in to their MSN account.
- To proceed further with the process, all users must click on options menu near the top right corner.
- Users must then click on Settings options and then on More options.
- Once this is done, users must click on customizing Hotmail in the second column.
- Users must then click on language in the next step, and once the language screen opens, users must select their preferred language.
- In the final step, users must save their settings.

If users want to have more info on changing the language settings on MSN, the best bet for users is to call at MSN help phone number without having any second thoughts. They have a team which comprises of diligent technicians who know all tricks of the trade to come up with precise solutions. They make use of a online chat to deliver their troubleshooting steps. Users can also post their queries on the online forums.