PRIORITIZE SAFETY

01

If the oil spill poses an immediate threat, ensure everyone's well-being by evacuating the area and contacting emergency services if necessary. Avoid direct contact, and don't expose yourself to breathing near the oil spill, since it may contain harmful toxins in the air. If you experience any adverse health effects, seek medical attention promptly.

DOCUMENT AND GATHER EVIDENCE

02

It is crucial to gather evidence to support your claim against the oil company. Take photographs or videos of the spill, noting the extent of the damage. Preserve any documentation including communication with the oil company, invoices, and receipts for cleanup or repair expenses. This is important to your case and seeking compensation.

CONTACT A LITIGATING ATTORNEY

03

An experienced attorney will guide you through the necessary steps, help assess the extent of the damage, and ensure that your claim is properly documented and presented. They will negotiate with the oil company to seek fair compensation for the harm caused.
