You are liable to have your Biometrics (fingerprints and facial image) taken for the following reason(s):<sup>1</sup>

- 2. You have been refused entry to the United Kingdom but have been Temporarily Admitted/granted Immigration Bail. However, an immigration officer reasonably suspects that you might break a condition imposed on you relating to residence or reporting to the Secretary of State or any such other person as may be specified and this decision has been confirmed by a chief immigration officer.
- 3a. You are a person against whom it has been decided to make a deportation order.
- 3b. You are a person who is subject to automatic deportation under Section 32(5) of the UK Borders Act 2007.

If you have previously had your biometrics taken by UK police<sup>iii</sup>, your biometrics may be obtained from the police<sup>iv</sup> and processed for the reason(s) above.

DESTRUCTION OF BIOMETRICS<sup>v</sup>

Your fingerprints and any copies of them will be destroyed

Either Before the end of a period of 15 years beginning with the day on which they were taken unless:

- (c) fingerprints that the Secretary of State deems it necessary for national security reasons to retain for use in connection with one of the functions specified in regulation 4(1);
- (d) the fingerprints of a person with indefinite leave to enter or remain in the United Kingdom;

- (f) the fingerprints of a person who—
  - (i) is not a British citizen and who does not have a right of abode in the United Kingdom; and
  - (ii) is the holder of a document which recognises the right of permanent residence in the United Kingdom by virtue of [the Immigration Act of 1971], in which case they must be destroyed by the Secretary of State at the end of 15 years beginning with the date on which the holder ceased to enjoy the right of permanent residence.

Or As soon as reasonably practicable if you prove you are a British Citizen or a Commonwealth citizen who has the right of abode in the United Kingdom as a result of section 2(1)(b) of the Immigration Act 1971;

Or if you are a dependant of someone falling within categories 1-5 above, at the same time as that person's fingerprints have to be destroyed.

You may request a certificate to the effect that your fingerprints have been destroyed.

The biometrics information you provide to the Home Office will be treated in confidence but they may be disclosed to other government departments, agencies, foreign governments and other bodies to enable them to be used for purposes specified in the immigration legislation. In particular, if your biometrics were taken for asylum purposes they may be disclosed in confidence to the asylum authorities of other countries which may have responsibility for considering your claim.

Failure to declare that you have been present or claimed asylum in another country or if you have failed to disclose any other identities you may have previously used may damage your credibility and may affect the outcome of your asylum application.

If you appeal, or apply for review of, the immigration decision made by the Secretary of State the fact that your prints match those held on the Immigration and Asylum Biometric System or other biometric databases may be brought to the attention of the Immigration Judge.

You may make a subject access request for disclosure of the data held about you on the Immigration and Asylum Biometric System. If the data concerning you is factually inaccurate, you can request that it is corrected or that data recorded unlawfully be erased.

Biometrics may also be supplied to a country of which you are a national or citizen, although any claim for asylum will not be disclosed.
