Personality, Mood, and Psychiatric Symptoms Among Anabolic Steroid Users

The relationship between use of anabolic steroids (ASs) and specific personality dimensions was assessed in 50 male bodybuilders who were current or past users compared with a sample of 25 age-matched, "natural" male bodybuilders who never used ASs. No personality differences were found. The relationship between current AS use and the presence of variations in mood state, hostility, and psychiatric symptomatology was then evaluated. Current AS users scored higher than non-users only on psychometric scales measuring hostility, aggression, and somatization. Thus, reports that AS use was associated with significant psychopathology, other than aggression and somatization, could not be confirmed.

Anabolic steroids (ASs) are natural androgens or synthetic derivatives of the male hormone testosterone. These compounds are increasingly abused by both amateur and elite athletes via a growing black market distribution system. ASs are commonly self-administered in pharmacologic doses by bodybuilders, weight lifters, and other athletes for performance and physique enhancement. Besides evidence of an increasing prevalence of use of ASs,<sup>1,2</sup> the few reports in the scientific literature pertaining to their psychiatric effects suggest that ASs may induce psychosis,<sup>3,4</sup> organic affective disorder,<sup>5,6</sup> violence,<sup>7</sup> and suicidal<sup>8</sup> and homicidal behavior.<sup>9</sup> Recently, Perry et al.,<sup>10</sup> in a systematic study of psychiatric symptoms among current AS users, reported that AS-using weight lifters presented with more somatic, depressive, anxious, hostile, and paranoid complaints than did control, non-using weight lifters. However, this report did not evaluate personality differences between AS-using and nonusing athletes. Such a comparison is critical, since the impact of ASs on dispositional personality factors could account for the psychopathology reported among AS users.

We hypothesized that AS use would be primarily found among athletes who are ag-

Steroids

WHAT ARE STEROIDS?

Anabolic steroids are synthetically produced variants of the naturally occurring male hormone testosterone that are abused in an attempt to promote muscle growth, enhance athletic or other physical performance, and improve physical appearance.

Testosterone, trenbolone, oxymetholone, methandrostenolone, nandrolone, stanozolol, boldenone, and oxandrolone are some of the anabolic steroids that are most commonly encountered by United States law enforcement.

WHAT IS THEIR ORIGIN?

Most illicit steroids are smuggled into the U.S. from abroad. Steroids are also illegally diverted from legitimate sources (theft or inappropriate prescribing). The Internet is the most widely used means of buying and selling anabolic steroids. Steroids are also bought and sold at gyms, bodybuilding competitions, and schools from teammates, coaches, and trainers.

What are common street names?

Common street names include:

- Arnolds, Juice, Pumpers, Roids, Stackers, and Weight Gainers

What do they look like?

Steroids are available in:

- Tablets and capsules, sublingual-tablets, liquid drops, gels, creams, transdermal patches, subdermal implant pellets, and water-based and oil-based injectable solutions

The appearance of these products varies depending on the type and manufacturer.

How are they abused?

Steroids are ingested orally, injected intramuscularly, or applied to the skin. The doses abused are often 10 to 100 times higher than the approved therapeutic and medical treatment dosages. Users typically take two or more anabolic steroids at the same time in a cyclic manner, believing that this will improve their effectiveness and minimize the adverse effects.

Etude de l'observance médicamenteuse des patients diabétiques de type II en Île-de-France

Septembre 2016

Christophe DEVYS
Directeur Général de l'ARS Île-de-France

Depuis 2014, l'Agence régionale de santé Île-de-France a fait de l'amélioration du dépistage et de la prise en charge du diabète une de ses priorités avec la mise en place du Projet régional diabète en collaboration avec la cellule Politique régionale du médicament et des produits de santé. L'Agence régionale de santé Île-de-France a mené une étude sur plus de 70 000 patients franciliens permettant d'apprécier l'observance médicamenteuse dans le diabète de type II.

Vincent BILDSTEIN
Président d'IMS Health France

Leader mondial des données de santé, IMS Health a mis son expertise en matière d'étude de l'observance au service de l'ARS Île-de-France. La force des données de santé anonymisées collectées dans les observatoires patients d'IMS Health a permis la constitution d'une cohorte longitudinale de patients conforme aux critères définis par l'ARS Île-de-France.

Les principaux résultats présentés ici démontrent l'importance de la prise en compte de l'observance thérapeutique dans le diabète comme enjeu majeur de santé publique et de politique régionale de réduction des inégalités sociales et territoriales de santé. Cette étude est le fruit d'une collaboration entre l'ARS Île-de-France et IMS Health au service des patients franciliens.

La genèse du projet

Favoriser l'adhésion des patients aux traitements prescrits dans le diabète de type II est un enjeu important pour améliorer à la fois la qualité de vie des patients et l'efficacité de la prise en charge.

Dans le cadre de la Politique régionale du médicament et des produits de santé et du projet régional Diabète, l'ARS Île-de-France souhaite conduire un plan d'actions afin d'améliorer l'adhésion aux traitements du diabète de type II et contribuer à la lutte contre les inégalités sociales et territoriales de santé.

En effet, 3,25% des franciliens souffrent de diabète de type II (environ 400 000 personnes). Ce chiffre cache de fortes disparités : la Seine-et-Marne (77), la Seine-Saint-Denis (93) et le Val-d'Oise (95) dépassent ainsi les 4% de prévalence, soit plus de 100 000 habitants touchés.

L'ARS Île-de-France, ne disposant pas de données d'observance aux traitements dans le diabète de type II de sa région, a souhaité dans un premier temps réaliser un état des lieux afin d'identifier des actions à mettre en place.

La Direction Santé Publique en lien avec la Direction de la Stratégie de l'ARS Île-de-France et IMS Health ont ainsi mené en 2015 une étude sur l'observance dans le diabète de type II. L'étude ciblait les territoires du 77, 93 et 95 considérés comme prioritaires pour cette pathologie. L'étude a été réalisée à partir de la base de données longitudinales des dispensations pharmaceutiques IMS Longitudinal Treatment Dynamics™ (LTD) qui couvre de manière permanente depuis 2012 un tiers de la population en France. IMS Health a développé les outils et les méthodes pour évaluer l'observance qui ont été utilisés dans cette étude.

En s'appuyant sur les enseignements de cette étude, une deuxième étape de ce travail consistera à pérenniser le recueil d'informations sur l'observance médicamenteuse à partir des données du Système National d'Information Inter-Régimes de l'Assurance Maladie (SNIIRAM).
