In January, Musk told Babylon Bee: 'I agree with the principles that Jesus advocated. There is a lot of wisdom in the doctrines of Jesus and I am in agreement with those teachings.'

He continued, 'Things like 'turn the other cheek' are extremely important in contrast to 'an eye for an eye'. An eye for an eye renders everyone blind.

Forgiveness is essential. Treat people as you would like to be treated. "Love your neighbor as yourself.'

"But I'm sure Jesus is saving people, and I mean I will not stand in His way.

"Sure, I'll be saved." Why wouldn't I?

Musk's return to Twitter on Friday following an absence of nine days was the highlight of Friday's tweets.

He returned to pay tribute to an YouTube gamer who passed away from cancer.

With an image of Sonic the Hedgehog, the image was captioned as "Popular Minecraft YouTuber Technoblade with 12 billion subscribers recently passed away at 23 from cancer, and this caused me to realize that cancer is an] absurd piece of literal garbage and death however, try to live your life with people who know. They could die the following day, and you'll regret not doing things with them.'

He also shared a picture showing him celebrating his 40th birthday in Venice with Talulah Riley who is an actress from the UK. British actress.

"Venice is an area of great remembrance."

He said, "Feeling... maybe... maybe a bit bored?"
