The Mission

The mission president should consult with local stake presidents to determine who should be assigned to perform the audit. If desired, two brethren could work together on the audit. Those performing the audit must not be from the mission office staff.

Important: Everyone who participates in the audit must keep records and audit information confidential.

The mission president, financial secretary, and other secretaries and coordinators (as needed) are to be available to answer questions during the audit.

The Auditor

The auditor should:

- Meet with the mission president and the financial secretary to identify any areas of special concern.
- Complete the "Audit Checklist" section (pages 1–3) by marking the box next to each numbered item to indicate whether the statement is true, false, or not applicable (NA). Every item in this checklist should be marked.
- For any item marked "False," write the item number in the first column of the "Corrective Action Plans" section (page 4) and, in the second column, write an explanation of the audit exception.
- Ask the mission president and the financial secretary to fill out the third and fourth columns of the "Corrective Action Plans" section (page 4) for each audit exception.

- Review the results of the audit, including any corrective action plans, with the mission president.
- Have the mission president approve the corrective action plans by signing in the "Audit Report" section (page 4).
- Indicate completion of the audit by signing in the "Audit Report" section (page 4).
- Leave a copy of pages 1–4 with the mission president as a record of the audit exceptions that were identified.
- Encourage the mission president to correct the audit exceptions as soon as possible.
- Return the completed Mission Financial Audit form (all five pages) within three days of completing the audit to the address or fax number above.

Auditors and mission presidents may direct any questions about this audit to the Missionary Department at the phone numbers listed above.

Important: The audit is to be completed and returned to the Missionary Department by February 28, 2006.
