

Medical illustrator - English (Active)

Number of Positions	Job Category	Posted Date	Location
1	Medical illustration, Image processing	Ongoing	Remote

Job Description:

If you're a motivated, talented and reliable illustrator that's experienced in making medical illustrations, then keep reading.

If you think you can match the following criteria:

- You've got a knack for drawing complicated anatomical structures
- You are able to replicate and adapt to Kenhub's illustration style
- You have a background in anatomy and histology

... then we are looking for YOU!

We are looking for candidates with excellent medical visualization skills to help us produce illustrations that we will use in our articles, videos, quizzes and other types of content. Join us in the crusade to revolutionize medical education - making anatomy and histology fun, efficient and easy, accessed anywhere, anytime.

Skills/Requirements:

- Skilled in Photoshop and/or Illustrator.
- Ability to commit long term to at least 20 hours per week.
- Ability to communicate effectively and efficiently in English.
- Background in anatomy and histology: minimum 1-2 years of learning and/or illustrating the subjects.
- Excellent organizational skills and high attention to detail.
- Ability to work effectively under deadline-driven schedules.

Our Ideal Candidate:

Is able to work independently and thrives by achieving set goals Once you are confident in what you need to do, you can reliably run with it and don't need a lot of direction. You are able to succinctly report your progress on a weekly basis. You are outcome-oriented and get a buzz from achieving your goals. That said, you are not on an island. You'll get help and support from the team and be part of our Kenhub family.

Is an exceptional communicator You know how to speak up about your ideas, concerns and suggestions. You don't take offense to constructive feedback and understand not to take things personally. You are efficient and smooth in your conversations.

Is creative, driven and action-oriented You're ambitious and you get things done. You're a do-er and a go-getter. When you see potential for things to improve, you think outside the box.

Is a believer of technology driven education You are dying to see medical education move forward in its method of teaching to catch up to today's technology. You relate to the pain and sorrow of carrying textbooks that makes studying confined to a desk. You understand that for students, they have little time to spare and every minute counts.

Is fun and easy-going As our team works remotely from each other, it is important for you to be open and to not take things too seriously. You can handle stressful situations while still being laser-focussed on your tasks. You don't have to be a joke master (these positions are highly competitive at Kenhub) but you know how to have a good laugh.

How to apply

Register for free at Kenhub: <https://www.kenhub.com>

Tell us in your cover letter how you are our ideal candidate, why Kenhub appeals to you, and what your background in medical illustration is.

Send your CV, cover letter and a varied, comprehensive portfolio to jobs@kenhub.com quoting reference number KHJ 22 MI.

Feel free to contact us if you have any questions. We don't bite, we are a friendly bunch.